Tarr Force Offers New Tax Formula

Vast Change In Local Distribution

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — After a year and a half of laborious effort, the Tarr Task Force on local government finance and organization late Friday voted to recommend to the Legislature a new formula for the redistribution of local shares of state taxes. If written into law, the proposals will reduce sharply the number of very high and very low property tax districts in Wisconsin.

The major ingredients of the formula include a flat $30 payment per inhabitant from the state treasury to every locality, and the distribution of the balance of the state-collected locally shared taxes to only those communities which levy more than 20 mills per $1,000 of full value.

In addition, the commission asked for an upward revision of state school aids costing about $26 million a year, a $10 million special fund for the education of disadvantaged children throughout the state, and a state value tax on private motor vehicles that would raise about $20 million a year to be distributed also for purposes of local tax equalization.

Final Editing

Dr. Curtis Tarr, president of Lawrence University, said the commission's findings now need only final editing, and that the printed report will reach the Legislature in a "reasonable time." When the 1967 Legislature, on the motion of Gov. Warren P. Knowles, set up the advisory group to devise means to resolve the endless political disputes about alleged inequities in state tax distribution, it set a deadline for the receipt of the report of Jan. 15 of this year.

The new tax distribution would pool the existing state real estate tax credit, the income tax, highway privilege tax, liquor tax, and utility tax, now distributed in various ways, into a single fund for payment to localities according to the severity of their local tax rates.

Including the proposed increased funding of school aids, the commission said that the new formula would bring down the number of communities with veryq low tax rates—under $20 on full value — from 133 to 87, and reduce the number of those with very high rates, of $35 and

Justice Department Suit

Big 4 Accused of Conspiring To Delay Pollution Devices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department sued the Big Four automakers Friday, charging they conspired to stifle development of devices to control air pollution by automobiles.

The civil suit was filed in Los Angeles against General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co., Chrysler Corp., American Motors Corp. and the Automobile Manufacturers Association, a trade organization.

It charged that since 1953 they had engaged in unlawful agreements to restrain trade and eliminate competition, in violaton of the Sherman Antitrust Act.

The companies and the association issued statements denying they had restrained trade. Instead, they said, they have cooperated to speed development of antipollution devices.

Justice Charges

The Justice Department charged they agreed:

—To eliminate competition among themselves in the development and installation of pollution control equipment.

—To eliminate competition in buying patents and patent rights for such equipment.

—To agree on a date for installing pollution control equipment and install it uniformly.

—To delay the installation of certain equipment which was workable.

—And to restrict publicity about research and development of pollution control devices.

Year Delay

The suit said the defendants could have installed positive crankcase ventilation devices on cars sold outside California in 1962, but agreed not to do it until 1963.

In early 1962 and 1963, it said the four companies agreed to delay the use of an improved positive crankcase ventilation device on cars sold in California.

The suit charged that in early 1964 the companies agreed to tell California pollution authorities a device to control exhaust pollution could not be installed until 1967, when in fact it could have been used on 1966 models.

It said the four finally installed the devices on 1966 models because of pressure from manufacturers outside the auto industry.

"Cooperative Program"

Thomas C. Mann, former undersecretary of state who is president of the Automobile Manufacturers Association, said the suit "is based on a profound misunderstanding of the cooperative program" of the automakers to control pollution.

"We greatly regret the sudden decision of the Department of Justice to attack the industry's 15-year-long cooperative program to develop and perfect motor vehicle emission controls."

The Justice Department listed several other companies which it said were co-conspirators, but not defendants.

These were the Checker Motor Corp. of Kalamazoo, Mich.; Diamond T Motor Car Co. of Cleveland; International Harvester Co. of Chicago; Studebaker Corp. of South Bend, Ind.; Kaiser Jeep Corp. of Oakland, Calif., and Mack Trucks, Inc. of New York.

Democrats Bid For Repeal of Labor Control

Dual Attack Opened Against Part of Taft-Hartley Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democrats, with virtually a zero batting average on labor legislation last year, have opened a two-pronged attack aimed at repealing the most controversial section of the Taft-Hartley law.

The two bills are among four significant labor law proposals introduced by Democrats since the new Congress convened Jan. 3.

One bill would repeal Taft-Hartley's section 14B which allows states to pass so-called "right-to-work" laws barring union membership as a condition of employment.

Repeal was tried in the 89th Congress, but failed after a bruising fight.

Farm Workers

The other measure would amend section 14B with the ultimate effect of repealing it.

Two other bills would make it easier for farm workers to organize and would remove restrictions on construction workers from staging a type of secondary boycott.

It is too early to predict how much push will be given the labor measures, particularly those attacking 14B. The last battle on that issue opened wounds that have yet to heal.

"Whatever is done to promote it will depend largely on what Meany & Co. do," said an informed source. "And they haven't, as far as I know, come up with any decisions."

George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, made repeal of 14B his major goal in 1965, and a bill passed the House. It was killed in the Senate early in 1966 by filibuster.

Meany reportedly agreed not to press President Johnson for another try in the 90th Congress in exchange for help on other measures.

Three Perfect Rocket Firings Needed in Landing on Moon

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Three rocket engines must fire perfectly, one of them several times, for the moon landing crew to return to Earth safely, the Apollo 11 commander told newsmen Friday.

Neil A. Armstrong, commander of the first American space crew with a chance to land on the moon, said all the firing of rocket engines around the moon "will have to be completed for us to come back."

"I recognize that no matter how good things get, there's always something that can malfunction," he said, when asked of the dangers of the flight.

Armstrong, a civilian, Air Force Col. Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. and Air Force Lt. Col. Michael Collins were named to the Apollo 11 crew by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration on Thursday. They held a lengthy news conference Friday.

Armstrong said he felt it "a great honor to be selected," but noted that "any one of our men (astronauts) would like to have this job."

Collins said "I don't think there's any of the Apolo mainline crews that couldn't take over" the lunar mission.

Aldrin said the selection came through "the twists and turns of fate" and he felt gratitude to a "fate kind enough to put us in this position."

Aldrin and Armstrong will make the descent to the lunar surface aboard the lunar module. Collins will stay aboard the command module in lunar orbit.

It hasn't been decided, Armstrong said, who will take the first step onto the moon—he or Aldrin—but that simulations of assigned lunar surface activities will be conducted to make that decision.

Aldrin said the astronauts will carry onto the surface equipment for three experiments. Two devices, a seismograph and a laser light beam reflector, will be left on the moon. A third device, a strip of foil which will measure the solar winds, will be left on the surface a brief time and brought back by the crew.

But, Armstrong said, the most important thing to be learned on the first landing is how well man can work in the airless moon surface where gravity is one-sixth that of Earth.

The crew will also bring back a number of samples of lunar dust and rock.

Reaction of the crew's wives varied.

Armstrong said his wife was "very happy" once she was assured he really wanted to go.

Collins said: "This is my fifth crew and my wife gets a little happier each time."

Aldrin said his wife was a little reluctant for him to attempt the dangerous mission, "but she'll come around."

Donald K. Slayton, chief of the flight crew operations, said that Apollo 11 could end up short of the moon if the preceding two Apollo flights fail to accomplish all objectives. If that happens he said, Apollo 11 could be a lesser mission flown to gather more flight information.

Car Ferry Docks After Rough Trip

MILWAUKEE (AP) The car ferry Madison returned to Milwaukee Friday after a turbulent 21 hours on Lake Michigan in which two railroad freight cars were knocked off their tracks inside the vessel and four piggy back trailers were overturned.

The ferry had tried to enter the harbor at Muskegon, Mich., but was turned back by thick ice.

Capt. Floyd Berg of Superior said the 80-mile voyage across the lake and back again was "one of the roughest trips I've made in 24 years on the lake."

The ferry left Milwaukee at 11 a.m. Thursday and ran into frigid winds up to 35 miles an hour and waves 10 feet high. The rail cars and truck trailers were dislodged when the boat crashed into thick ice outside the Muskegon breakwater.

Israeli Jets Hit Arab Positions

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli warplanes flashed low across the Jordan River cease-fire line today to pound Arab commando positions following an attack on an Israeli army vehicle.

Observers on the Israeli side of the border reported seeing flames and smoke from the abandoned Arab village of Ktes, just across the border.

The action took place near Kibbutz Gesher, six miles south of the Jordan River in the embattled Jordan valley.

It was the first time Israel had called in planes to hit Arab attackers since Jan. 2.

Israeli sources claim the use of airplanes to hit guerrillas lying in ambush just across the border has proven highly successful since its inauguration several weeks ago.

Deserter Returns From Cuba

Daughter's Future Comes First

MIAMI (AP) - "I know I will have to go to jail. But my only hope now is to insure my daughter's future."

Willis Jessie, 27, a U.S. Army deserter and hijacker of a private plane said that's why he returned voluntarily to American soil Friday night after five months in Cuba.

"We had no future in Cuba," he told newsmen.

Jessie carried blonde, blue-eyed Patricia Sue, 2, as he stepped off an airliner from Mexico City. He was arrested immediately by three FBI agents who whisked him quickly through customs.

Jessie's former wife, Mary Jane, was at the airport for a tearful reunion with Patricia Sue, whom she had not seen since Jessie took her from her home in Holden, W.Va., last July. The Jessies were divorced in 1967.

The girl's mother reported that at first the girl did not recognize her, but that they became reacquainted in a Miami hotel. In the closet hung a new green dress which Mrs. Jessie had bought for her daughter.

She reported that Patricia Sue spoke a "kind of babyish Spanish" after living most of the time in Havana with a Cuban family.

Mrs. Jessie said her former husband lived in a prison camp in Havana.

In Prison Camp

"The Cuban family brought the baby to him at the prison camp and they let him see her every day," she reported.

Jessie kissed the girl several times before surrendering her to the mother.

The FBI said Jessie, an Army sergeant and Vietnam veteran, deserted from his post at Ft. Benning, Ga. last July 19. Last Wednesday, a federal grand jury in Miami indicted Jessie on a charge of air piracy in connection with the hijacking of a private sightseeing plane over Naples, Fla., last Aug. 4.

Authorities said Jessie paid the pilot, James Vach, $5 for a sightseeing tour for him and Patricia Sue over the southwest Florida Gulf Coast city. He used the name Sewart Orth of Miami.

Vach reported that 15 minutes after they were airborne, Jessie pulled a pistol from a shaving kit and ordered him to go to Cuba or "fly until we run out of gas."

Suspect Implicated In Mackle Kidnap

MIAMI (AP) — A U. S. commissioner was told of a girl being buried alive with instructions on how to bail out her coffin, then ruled there was probable cause to believe Gary Krist kidnaped Barbara Mackle and put her in the living grave.

Krist, 23, and escaped convict, sat slumped over during the Friday hearing, his bearded chin on his chest and his eyes averted from witnesses as they told how Barbara was buried on a Georgia hillside after being kidnaped Dec. 17.

FBI agent Joseph St. Pierre said Miss Mackle described the ordeal from her hospital bed after being freed from the box where she spent 83 hours.

"They told her there was a pump operated on a battery that would bail out her capsule if water seeped in," St. Pierre testified at the hearing in the chapel of Dade County Jail.

"Barbara said the kidnaper she knew as George told her he'd tested the capsule himself in the same spot and it worked perfectly," the agent said. When shown pictures of Krist, St. Pierre continued Barbara said, "That's him! That's the man!"

"He told her the battery would last a week unless she used the light too much in which case it would burn out in five days," St. Pierre said. "He told her not to use the pump unless the box sprang a leak. She started it twice because he said if she started the pump it would trigger an alarm in a nearby house and let them know she was in trouble but they never came."

Ransom Note

Commissioner Edward Swan also read the typewritten, three-page ransom note buried in the backyard of the Coral Gables, Fla., home of Robert Mackle before his 20-year-old daughter was taken from a motel outside Atlanta.

"She is quite safe if somewhat uncomfortable," the note began. "Barbara is presently inside a small capsule buried in a remote piece of soil. She has enough food and water to last seven days. At the end of the seven days the life supporting batteries will be discharged and her air supply will be cut off."

A ransom of $500,000 in used $20 bills would buy the "address" of the box. If the money were not paid "we will simply not say anything to anyone and ergo Barbara will suffocate."

"Should you catch all of us we will never admit anything as to do so would be suicide and again — she will die," the note said.

The note ordered Mackle, holder of $16 million in stock in the family's Deltona Corp., to dress all in white and deliver the ransom himself. "Any deviation will result in his death. The messenger will have him in his sights," the note said.

FBI Inspector Rex Shroder of Washington, sent to supervise the investigation, said Krist had $140 in $20s with serial numbers matching the Mackle money when captured on alligator-infested Hog Island Dec. 22.

Swan set permanent bond of $500,000 for Krist and bound him over to the grand jury on charges of extortion by mail, extortion by telephone and interstate travel in aid of racketeering. Federal kidnap charges were dismissed because the Emory University coed never was taken across a state line.

Nixon Asks Bliss to Keep Party Post

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect Nixon has settled for the foreseeable future an internal debate over the leadership of the Republican National Committee by asking Ray C. Bliss to remain its chairman.

No specific period was disclosed and Bliss would not discuss the question of how long he might continue. But a key political aide to the President-elect says Nixon's request means Bliss will remain in the party post for "a substantial period" unless he decides to leave.

Nixon is known to have considered replacing Bliss with a chairman more talented in public political salesmanship.

Some men among Nixon's circle of advisers had advocated this course.

A possible compromise also had been considered, that of assigning a new party spokesman to work with Bliss at the national committee. One man who had been under consideration for that role was Bud Wilkinson, the television sportscaster who has been named a special White House consultant.

President Pondering Surtax Extension

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Bureau of the Budget was to present advance copies of President Johnson's final federal budget to the press today, but instead the figures languish unprintable while Johnson agonizes and Richard M. Nixon ponders the question:

"Will the income surtax be extended and, if so, who will ask Congress to do it? Johnson, Nixon or both of them?"

The inability of the President and the President-elect to resolve this question forced the Budget Bureau to stop printing the new budget for fiscal 1970 Friday. The budget was to be submitted to Congress next Tuesday, but that schedule also has been set back.

Aides of President Johnson reported Friday night that he still has not decided what fate he will recommend for the 10 per cent surtax, which will expire June 30 unless Congress extends it.

Johnson fought for the tax as a necessary check to an inflationary economy, and won reluctant agreement from Congress willing to go along for only one year.

Based on information gained from aides of both Johnson and Nixon, the issue now comes down to this:

Johnson believes the surtax should be continued to further cool down the economy, but because he won't have to live with the budget he's now drawing up, he doesn't think he should make such a decision without Nixon's concurrence. While he is mindful of disparaging remarks Nixon made about the tax during the campaign, he is hoping that he President-elect wants the $13 billion in revenue which the tax will yeild, and will say so.

Nixon Undecided

So far Nixon has said nothing, according to his two aides, who say he has not decided what course he'll take.

White House insiders say that there's no political pussy-footing on either side, but others in the Johnson administration are muttering that Nixon is "playing it cute" by not saying what he wants.

If Nixon took a stand with Johnson for continuing the tax, said one official, "we could start printing the budget in 15 minutes."

More is at stake in the delay than figures in fine print. Without a budget, the Economic Message can't be delivered, and the State of the Union message lies in limbo.

Johnson has promised that the fiscal 1969 budget will show a small surplus, and he is reported to want a 9170 budget that is at least balanced.

To do this he has only two options: Include the surtax, or cut federal spending by $13 billion.

The President's aides are reported to be against the latter alternatives on the ground that cuts can be made only in programs that Congress is almost certain to restore—for example, the $3 billion federal pay raise authorized for this year.

Johnson's aides, while saying they do not know which way the President will move, say they doubt he'll resort to making cuts that are patently fictional.

Nixon's aides, meanwhile, said only that they would have no official comment.

Listen to All Types of Sounds With Jar-Cover Earphones

BY CAPPY DICK

Out of a pair of metal jar covers and some string a boy or girl can make a set of musical earphones that will produce sounds resembling the ringing of chimes or church bells. This project can be completed in five or 10 minutes.

Listen to Sounds

Use the metal covers from glass jars. Those that are about three inches in diameter and about half an inch deep are usually the most satisfactory. There must be no sharp edges on the lids.

Punch a small hole in the middle of each lid. Into each hole insert a piece of ordinary string two feet long. Tie a thick knot in the end that is inside the lid, pull the knot tightly against the metal and apply a generous amount of glue over the knot. The glue must not only cover the knot but also must adhere to the metal around the knot so that the hole is sealed. The free end of the string will now hang down from the outside of the lid almost two feet.

Find something of metal around the house that produces a pleasant sound when struck against wood. A silver table fork is an example. A small metal shoe horn is another. A wire potato masher (figure 1) will also give good results. Assuming you have such a potato masher, tie the loose ends of strings to the wire portion as in figure 1. Hold the earphones snugly over your ears (figure 2) and move your head so the potato masher strikes the edge of the kitchen table. You will hear a vibrant sound something like that of church bells.

Try forks, letting them bump into each other as they swing as well as striking the edge of the table. Use other metal objects to provide additional sounds.

Monday: Lots more good fun for every boy and girl!

Young Couple Sentenced for Shoplifting

Husband Sent to Reformatory; Wife Given Probation

Shoplifting offenses dating back three or four years resulted in a two-year reformatory sentence Friday for a 19-year-old Appleton youth and a two-year probationary term for his wife.

Mr. and Mrs. John Knaack, 1715 W. Spencer St., had pleaded guilty Dec. 30 to the theft of a portable stereo record player from the H. C. Prange Co. Budget Store on Dec. 11, 1967. Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer ordered a pre-sentence investigation and continued sentencing to Friday.

Although the Knaacks were formally charged only with the theft of the $220 record player, the court was told they were involved separately and together, in other shoplifting incidents dating back "three or four years."

Thomas Cane, Outagamie County assistant district attorney, said they took $88.49 worth of merchandise from the H. C. Prange Co. downtown store; $235 worth of equipment, including a guitar, instruction books on guitar music, a stereo record player, and walkie-talkies, from the Prange Budget Center, and $129 worth of items, including clothing and automobile accessories, from Treasure Island.

Detective Sgt. Carl H. Thiel of the Appleton Police Department said that the Knaacks placed the record player with which they are charged with taking, onto a cart and wheeled it out of the Budget Store through a rear door, then to their car, on Dec. 11, 1967.

Thiel said investigation into the shoplifting incidents began after Knaack was taken into custody last November on a burglary charge, for which he is serving a six-months jail sentence.

Schaefer, in sentencing Knaack to two years in the reformatory, noted that the youth's record was poor and that he had been on probation. Knaack told the court he has "a drinking problem."

Schaefer first sentenced Mrs. Knaack, 20, to two years in the State Prison for Women at Taycheedah, but then stayed the sentence and placed her on two years probation to the State Department of Health and Social Services.

As conditions of probation, Mrs. Knaack must make restitution for her share of the stolen merchandise. The amount of restitution is to be determined by her probation agent. Mrs. Knaack also must pay court costs.

Police said that some of the stolen merchandise was recovered.

'Party' Ends in Court

A 27-year-old Appleton man who walked into a westside house saying he was there for "the party," was fined $35 and costs or eight days in jail Friday after pleading guilty to a drunkenness charge.

Clarence H. Heinz, 721 N. Appleton St., also was fined $50 or another 12 days in jail for reckless driving, and $40 or 10 days for speeding 45 miles per hour in a 25 zone.

Appleton police brought the drunkenness charge after they were called to a house on W. Spring Street about 6:45 p.m. Dec. 29. The occupants of the house said that a man later identified as Heinz walked into the house. He did not identify himself to the occupants. Police said Heinz was seated at a kitchen table when they arrived.

The driving charges were brought Aug. 18 after a car Heinz was driving went through a speed watch on S. Memorial Drive at 45 miles per hour. Police said Heinz did not stop and drove in a reckless manner when he was pursued.

A-C Will Sell New Plant to Harnischfeger

Cedar Rapids Work To be Transferred To Other Facilities

MILWAUKEE — An agreement for the sale o fthe new Allis-Chalmers Cedar Rapids Iowa, construction equipment plant to the Harnischfeger Corporation was announced today by the two Milwaukee based companies.

Allis-Chalmers President David C. Scott and Harnischfeger President Henry Harnischfeger said the transaction includes the new 320,000 square foot plant and its equpment and provides for continuation of production and employment. No product lines are involved in the sale. Value of the transaction was not announced.

Under terms of the agreement, Harnischfeger will take over the facility on Nov. 1, 1969. Between now and then, Allis-Chalmers will transfer the manufacture of its tractor scrapers and wheel loaders to plants in Springfield and Deerfield, Ill., and Harnischfeger will phase-in production of its new hydraulic construction equipment models under a subcontract arrangement with Allis-Chalmers.

Harnischfeger said that the Cedar Rapids plant would become the production center for P & H Hydraulic construction equipment, which is the company's newest and fastest growing product line.

Scott said, "This arrangement will enable us to transfer production to our Deerfield and Springfield plants and retire from the Cedar Rapids operation in an orderly manner and with least possible disruption of personnel and other related plant activities. It will let us concentrate manufacture of our growing line of construction machinery into two plants instead of five in order to lower costs, raise profits and speed up new product development."

Allis-Chalmers operates a paper-machine manufacturing plant in Appleton.

Ex-Policeman At Weyauwega Is Stricken

Dr. Jerry Salan flew to Texas Jan. 7, the day after Geer sustained the attack. Dr. Salan upon returning said that Geer is confined to the General Hospital at Mexia and is listed in serious condition. Mexia is located south of Dallas.

Mrs. Geer along with Dr. and Mrs. Salan are staying at Mexia while Geer recovers.

Woman Receives Cut in Mishap

Anita Klemp, 926 W. Eighth St., suffered a cut left hand and was taken home by auto about 4:45 p.m. Wednesday after a two-car collision on W. Prospect Ave., and Driscoll Street.

She was a passenger in a car driven by Marie E. Aeby, 211 E. Sumner St., Weyauwega. Her car was damaged extensively when struck in the side by one driven by David A. Miller, 25, 1355 Sunset Court, Neenah.

The Aeby car was traveling south on Driscoll and turning left onto Prospect after stopping at a stop sign, police said, while Miller was moving west on Prospect. The woman was cited for failing to yield from a stop sign.

Guiles Urged to Seek Blacks' Reinstatement

amid jeers of "Hitler" and "puppet."

Several of the group urged "breaking the door down" and making their way into Guiles' office. One bearded, long-haired demonstrator announced, "We will have a teach-in here and will talk about racism in Oshkosh, in Wisconsin and all over."

Five of their group volunteered to solicit support from other students in nearby dorms and Reeve Memorial Union. They returned 15 minutes later without any support.

The students held two closed door meetings to discuss "tactics."

The press was barred from both sessions. The door leading into the room was blocked by black students. No one was permitted to enter except for the "concerned" students.

A large contingent of students entered Spitler's office on the second floor and remained there for about five minutes before leaving. There were no disruptions in the financial aid director's office. Spitler was in the office when the students flocked in.

Continur Efforts

During the sit-in, blacks from Madison encouraged the "concerned" students from Oshkosh to continue their efforts for reinstatement of the 90 expelled students.

Some of the students advocated more militant tactics to break up "white capitalistic" society.

The committee and assembly at the open session were divided over what action the committee should take regarding the academic status of the expelled students.

Janet Feagans, committee member and political science instructor, moved that the committee ask for "immediate reinstatement of the black students."

Other universities and colleges, some "of far greater renown that Oshkosh", have already accepted some of the students for the second semester classes," she argued.

Faculty Senate

Martin Gruberg, a member of the committee and political science department, asked the committee to adopt a resolution similar to that approved Thursday by the faculty senate. That resolution asked the board of regents to allow the black students to apply for readmission to the university for second semester classes.

A voice from the floor countered that for the black students to be "reinstated" would imply no guilt on their part. But if they were allowed to "apply for readmission," they could be refused entry into the school.

A black student insisted that since the black students had been expelled as a group they should be reinstated as a group."

Both Gruberg and Alan Utke, committee member and from the chemistry department, urged the committee to pass a resolution that would have a chance of getting the endorsement of President Guiles and the Board of Regents.

"I don't think you'll get the Board of Regents to turn 180 degrees," Grubert argued. "But they might listen to the faculty senate resolution."

James Mc Kee, coordinator of the programs for the culturally distinct and himself a black man, said "I think we're totally naive if we think that the Board of Regents will approve reinstatement of the students as a group." He said that, regardless of how he personally felt, those concerned might have to settle for something less than what "some call justice."

A white student from the audience queried, "why don't you demand that Guiles endorse a strong resolution? Why don't you people show some courage?"

Gruberg answered, "it is not a matter of courage. It is a matter of prudence."

Resolved, That City Disposal Corp. does intend to hire its own refuse removal crews, thereby eliminating 39 employees of the City Sanitation Department;

Whereas, the current snow removal task has exceeded the capacity and capabilities of the City's Public Works force, including the Sanitation Department personnel;

Whereas, funds have been provided in the 1969 appropriations to purchase and equip some refuse removal equipment with snow plow blades to better cope with situations such as those of the past two weeks;

Whereas, the sale of the present equipment, elimination of portions of the available work force and the need for a more rapid operation of snow removal are interrelated with the said proposal of City Disposal Corp.;

Whereas, there are two aspects of costs interrelated in such a proposal; (1) that of overall cost comparison between contract and self-removal of refuse and the disposal of same, and (2) the cost factor in time and equipment, including its availability in emergencies, from private contractors if needed during snow removal.

Now Therefore Be It Resolved, that said City Officials, namely the Public Works, Personnel and Finance Directors prepare and submit a complete report covering all of these aspects to the Street and Sanitation Committee of the City of Appleton by June 30, 1969 so that an evaluation may be made as to the most economical and efficient expenditure of taxpayers money, and further, relate it to the quality of service to be rendered the taxpaying public."

The Dedication of the Altar of sacrifice is a solemn and impressive rite in the Catholic Church. Recently, a stone altar was dedicated at the new St. Bernard Church by the Most Rev. Stanislaus Bona, bishop of Green Bay, who is assisted by the Rev. Orville Janssen, pastor. The light-colored stone altar is large with the table top measuring eight feet in length and 40 inches in width. It occupies the central position and is located directly under a skylight which is about 22 feet in diameter. No one in the church is any more than nine pews from the altar. Center of Catholic Worship

Traditional Rites Mark Altar Consecration

And another angel came and stood at the altar, having a golden censer; and there was given unto him much incense that he should offer it with the prayers of all saints upon the golden altar, which was before the throne. And the smoke of the incense, which came with the prayers of the saints ascended up before God out of the angel's hand.

Rev. 8, v. 3 and 4
New Testament

In a church the altar holds a prominent and honored place for on it sacrifices are made and from it the holy communion meal is offered.

Because of its prominence, one of the most colorful ceremonies in a Catholic church is its dedication, especially when the "holy table" is made of stone.

Recently, such rites were performed at St. Bernard Church, the only church in Appleton at present to have a stone altar of sacrifice.

Such altars do exist in St. Mary, St. Joseph and St. Therese but they now are altars of reposition of the blessed sacrament and portable wood altars have been constructed to serve as altars of sacrifice.

Impressive Stone

The large, beautiful light colored travertine altar and platform was consecrated Dec. 21 by the Most Rev. Aloysius Wycislo, bishop of Green Bay. He was assisted by the Rev. James Vanden Hogen, secretary to the bishop; the Rev. Orville Janssen and the Rev. John Neuser, pastor and associate, respectively, of St. Bernard.

To emphasize the importance and holiness of the altar, the church has provided an impressive and symbolic ceremony for its consecretation, involving three principal parts.

The first is purification, symbolizing the expulsion of every evil; the second is the ceremony of the procession with the relics, which are entombed in the altar, and the third, the formal consecration and dedication to the exclusive worship of God.

The rite begins with the litany of all saints in which the congregation calls upon God and his saints, especially those to whom the altar is dedicated, and those whose relics are placed in it, to make this a truly holy place. The relic entombed in St. Bernard is that of St. Claude, an early Christian martyr about whom little is known.

The purification of the altar is done by sprinkling it with "Gregorian Water," a mixture composed of water, ashes and wine. This is the only time in the Roman liturgy that such a mixture is used.

Five Crosses

Then, invoking the blessed Trinity, five crosses are traced on the altar.

For the second part of the ceremony, the bishop changes into white vestments, symbolic of the joyful act of commemorating the triumph of the martyrs over the forces of evil.

During this ceremony, the relics from the martyr are placed into the sepulcher — a small cavity in the table top, which is then cemented into place with blessed cement.

The relic carries with it the sense of continuity of the Christian life around the altar. Martyrs who died for their faith got their strength from the Christ of the mass in their time, even as those partaking of the mass today do.

The custom of using relics for this kind of symbolic continuity come from the accident of the masses offered on graves in the catacombs during the early Roman persecutions.

Anointment

The actual consecration of the altar is the third part of the ceremony. First, the altar is anointed in five places — in each of the four corners and in the center. Sacred chrism — a mixture of olive and balsam oils — is used, the same as in baptism and confirmation.

Next, the altar is incensed. Five pieces of incense are placed in each of the crosses where the altar was anointed with chrism. Short wax tapers are placed on the incense and these are lit.

Ending the ceremony is a mass, an essential part of the consecration. The whole purpose of the consecration is to prepare a fitting place for the sacrifice, the center of Catholic worship.

The entire ceremony is symbolic of the setting aside of something to the total service of God. And this symbol reaps God's own promise in the Old Testament book of Exodus: "In all places where I record my name, I will come unto you and I will bless you."

Four From Area Named to New Methodist Agency

Four area people are among 40 to be named to a newly-formed committee of the United Methodist Church, which will administer the Fund for Reconciliation in Wisconsin.

Bishop Ralph Taylor Alton, Madison, named the 40 to the Wisconsin Area Quadrennial Emphasis Committee this week. The Fund is seeking $20 million nationally to meet challenges of race and poverty through the quadrennium ending in 1972. Half of the amount raised in Wisconsin will be retained for action projects in the state.

Among those named are Mrs. John Helms, Neenah; the Rev. Charles Logsdon, Appleton; Ronald Gibbs, Oshkosh, and Mrs. Erwin Wickstrom, Wittenberg.

The Committee not only will review requests that come to the church for funds and the final designation of expenditures, but may also be empowered to initiate investigation of areas of special concern that have not been brought to the attention of the group by others.

The group includes representatives of both the former Methodist and Evangelical United Brethren churches which were joined in 1968.

Assembly of God Prayer Conference Scheduled Monday

A district-sponsored prayer conference has been scheduled Monday at the Church of the Open Bible, Assembly of God.

From 10:30 a.m. until about 4:30 p.m. there will be continuous prayer and scriptural readings. The conference will resume at 7:30 p.m. for the concluding service.

Rev. Curtis

Leading the prayer conference will be the Rev. Lyle E. Curtis, Waupaca, superintendent of the Wisconsin and Northern Michigan District of the Assemblies of God. The Rev. Mr. Curtis has been superintendent for three years and assistant for six. Before that he served several parishes in the state.

The parsonic voice is no longer "a universal affliction" says the Rev. D. W. Cleverly Ford, director, who aims to teach clergy to speak simply without mannerisms.

Nazarene Church Shows Increase

Although no statistics were released, the year-end report of the Church of the Nazarene states that Sunday school and church attendance doubled in 1968.

The announcement came from the Rev. R.M. Brunner, who has been in charge of the congregation for the past 13 months.

According to the minister, attendance records were broken by having the largest vacation Bible school and Sunday school enrollment in the small church's history. The church also has an active youth group that carries on a spiritual, social and musical program.

Future plans are to sell the wooded lots and chapel at 1700 N. Graceland Ave., and build a church and educational unit near Appleton High School-East.

This report is in line with the year-end report of the Church of the Nazarene, International, which opened two new liberal arts colleges and reached a membership of 464,962 — a net gain of 11,154 over 1967.

The two new Nazarene Colleges are located at Olathe, Kan., and Mt. Vernon, Ohio. This pushed the total in the 12 Nazarene educational institutions to 9,026.

Domestic membership was recorded at 377,706, an increase of 6,589. There are 6,211 Nazarene churches in the world.

Better Preaching May Cost Britons $120,000

LONDON (AP) — Most of the estimated 50,000 sermons preached in Britain's churches each Sunday would be better if the preachers were properly trained, says the College of Preachers, an Anglican foundation which is trying to raise 50,000 pounds ($120,000) to further its work at Elfinsward Diocesan House in Sussex.

Elroy Hirsch Would Consider Job If Asked

Board of Regents Fires Ivy Williamson as the Director of UW Athletics

By ARTHUR L. SRB

MADISON (AP) — Ivan B. Williamson, whose administrative achievements fell short of his football coaching success, was fired as athletic director of the University of Wisconsin Friday.

The board of regents demoted Williamson to professor of athletics and immediately launched a search for a new man to promote the school's sagging athletic fortunes.

Williamson's ouster followed five consecutive losing football seasons, the last two of them winless. Williamson has been at Wisconsin 20 years—the first seven as football coach and the last 13 as athletic director.

"To stay competitively and fiscally ahead," said Regent President Charles Gelatt, "you have fortune and leadership on your side. We have no control over fortune Therefore, it would seem to indicate that we need new leadership."

Inability of the floundering football Badgers to draw large crowds into Camp Randall Stadium contributed to an athletic department deficit of about $91,500. Earlier, the department had projected a deficit or more than $260,000.

The board said Williamson would be paid $18,800 as professor of athletics in the department of education. He drew $23,000 as athletic director.

Williamson, who helped rebuild the Badgers into a post-World War II football power, met with immediate success when he took over the helm in 1949.

In seven years his teams amassed a 41-19-4 record, and the first six years his teams were in contention for the Big Ten title or Rose Bowl bids down to the last day of each campaign.

His 1952 team went to the Rose Bowl and lost to Southern California, 7-0. He was elevated to athletic director following the death of Guy Sundt in 1955.

Milt Bruhn, who succeeded Williamson, took two teams to the Rose Bowl, in 1959 and 1962, then the Badgers' fortunes waned.

Ivy Williamson

Bruhn resigned under fire in 1966 after three consecutive losing seasons. His assistant, John Coatta, took over and has compiled a 0-19-1 in his first two seasons.

Rumors that Williamson might be forced out had cropped up frequently in recent weeks.

The Athletic Board held a secret meeting early this week to discuss the athletic directorship while Williamson was in Los Angeles attending the National Collegiate Athletic Association's annual conference.

Late last fall, Coatta's staff was jolted by a list of grievances submitted by black athletes following their boycott of the annual football banquet.

Coatta was later given a uanimous vote of confidence by the Athletic Board, but one of his assistants, Gene Felker, had already resigned after leveling a blast at "weak, frightened administrators."

Williamson, a native of Wayne, Ohio, played football for the University of Michigan from 1930-32. Before coming to Wisconsin, he was head coach for two years at LaFayette College in Pennsylvania.

WAUSAU (AP) — Elroy Hirsch, former University of Wisconsin and Michigan football star, said Friday night in answer to a reporter's question that he had not been approached about the athletic directorship at Wisconsin but "would give it much consideration if asked."

Hirsch, assistant to Dan Reeves, president of the Los Angeles Rams of the National football League, was reached by telephone in Miami.

He said he "certainly would not" pursue the position if not asked but commented that "anyone would be honored to be considered for the athletic director position at a major university."

Hirsch, a native of Wausau, played at Wisconsin and later at Michigan in the 1940s.

Menasha Cage Team Scores 72-62 Win

Tops New London For Third Success In League Play

BY ROGER PITT
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEW LONDON — Menasha put together a balanced attack to sweep past New London 72-62, Friday, to resume the Mid-Eastern Conference campaign.

The victory was the third in five M-E outings for Barry Ewaldt's Jays, while the Bulldogs have a 1-4 slate in loop action.

A 25-point outburst in the opening stanza was followed up with a 21-point encore to give Menasha a 46-29 advantage at the half.

In the third period, New London came roaring back within striking distance, coming within eight points on two occasions, 44-52, and 46-54.

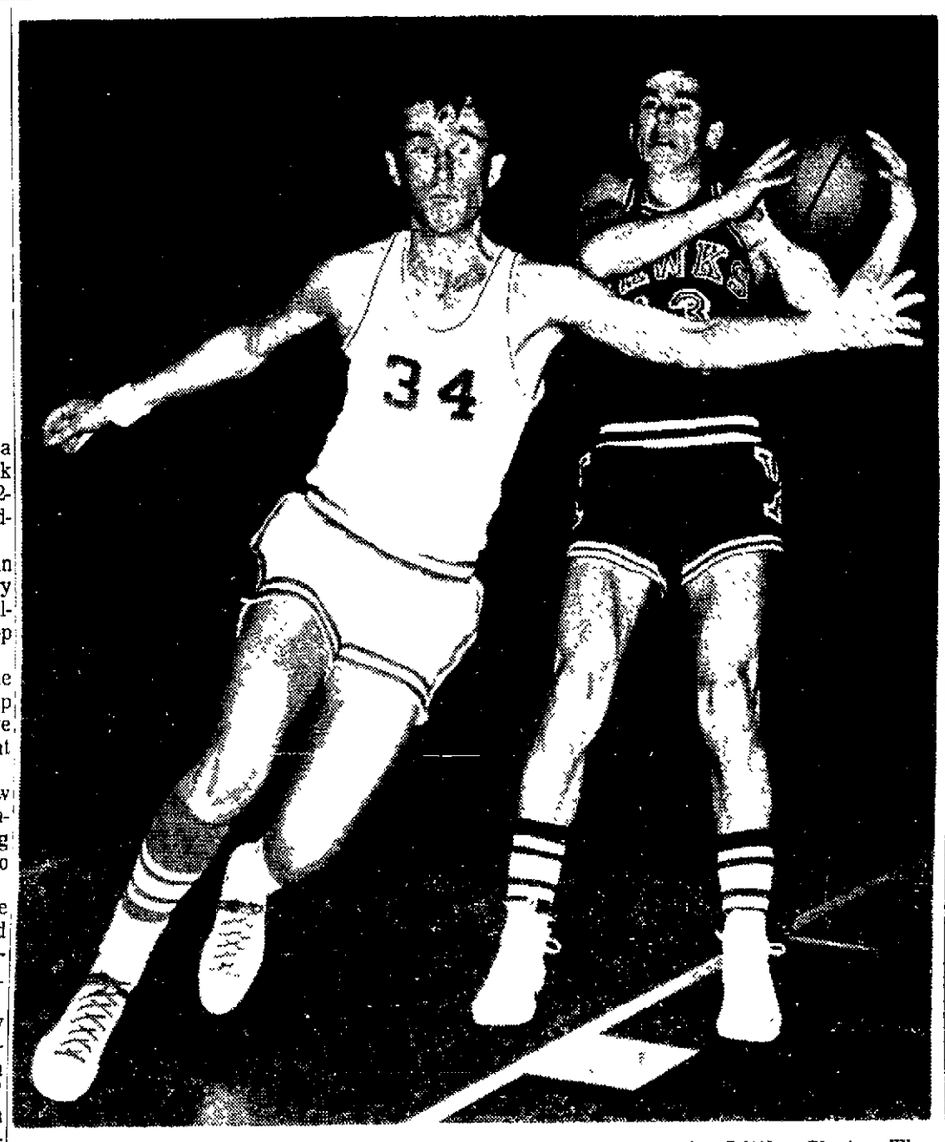

The Jays rebounded in the waning seconds of the third period to build at 58-46 advantage going in to the final stanza.

Dominates Boards

The teams were equally matched physically, but Menasha dominated the boards with 47 recoveries to the Bulldogs' 36. In the first half, when Menasha did most of its damage, the Jays had 27 rebounds to the Bulldogs 13.

Menasha loosed 56 shots in

LITTLE CHUTE — St. John failed to stand in awe of Appleton Xavier's fifth-rated state high school basketball team here Friday night, coming within 1:38 of upsetting the highly-touted Hawks who rallied down the stretch to post their eighth straight Fox Valley Catholic Conference win, 55-51.

The Dutchmen led but once in the contest, at 51-50, but that advantage came with just 3:08 left in the game as Stu Hietpas pumped in his third long-range shot of the closing priod.

Following a missed St. John free throw, Xavier's Mike Clark drove down the center and rolled in his 18th point of the night to put the Hawks ahead to stay, at 52-51, with 1:38 remaining.

Regain Control

Moments later, the visitors regained control and went into a stall but the villagers took possession with :19 showing. A long pass under the enemy bucket misfired and went out of bounds with :13 to go, forcing

Roozen Goal Decisive

Vikings Tip Knox To Record Initial MC Cage Victory

BY RON WITT
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

An on-again, off-again Lawrence University basketball team blew hot at the right time — in the final 50 seconds, to be exact — and captured its first Midwest Conference victory of the season in edging past Knox College, 77-74, at Alexander Gym Friday night.

There were lots of heroes for the Vikes, but it was guard Dave Roozen who got what proved to be the winning basket on a driving layup with 50 seconds showing on the clock. That boal gave Lawrence a 75-74 lead, and running mate Jim Dyer added two free throws with 13 seconds left to sew up the win.

Forward Bob Townsend, held to just six points in the first half, pumped through 18 in the second stanza for a team-high total of 24. Roozen and Brad Childs contributed 17 apiece, and Mike Andrews netted 15.

Combine For 47

A dandy pair of guards, Bill Fuerst and Kyle Kennelly, combined for 48 points to pace the Knox attack. Fuerst, an all-MC choice last season, had 25 markers and Kennelly hit 22.

The actual difference in the game was measured at the free throw line. Each team fired through 30 field goals, but Lawrence connected on a dazzling 17 of 20 foul shots compared to the Siwashers' 14 of 20.

Lawrence, which was slated to welcome Monmouth at 1:30 p.m. today, thus brought its league record to 1-4. The loss left the Siwashers from Galesburg, Illinois, with a 1-1 mark.

It appeared the Vikes would win going away as they built a 73-67 advantage with 3:28 remaining But then as it happened on several occasions earlier, John Poulson's cagers went into a cold spell and Knox came roaring back.

One free throw and a rebound goal off a missed gift attempt closed the gap to 73-70 at the 3:12 mark, and after Lawrence was forced into a traveling violation, the visitors pulled to within one point on John Park's jumper from the side.

The ball changed hands four times in the next minute or so without a point scored before Dyer fouled the Siwashers' Elbert Collins. Collins sank both tosses of a bonus situation and the Knox quintet was ahead, 74-73.

It was at this juncture that Roozen, a stockily built 5-11 senior from Milwaukee, decided to take matters in his own hands. The Vike co-captain broke to his left around the key and then out-maneuvered his man to score coming down the baseline.

Knox, of course, still had plenty of time to score, but Park's short jumper with 36 seconds to go fell off the rim. Even then, the visitors got the ball back as a Vike touched it before it went out of bounds.

Probably the biggest blow to Knox came with 15 seconds showing, when Park was called for an offensive foul against LU's Andrews. That set up a foul by Fuerst and as a consequence Dyer's final free throws.

The contest had been closely-

North's Fast Finish Stops Oshkosh '5'

SHEBOYGAN — The Sheboygan North basketball team outscored Oshkosh, 10 to 2, in the final 1:57 of play to turn a 52-53 deficit into a 62-55 Fox River Valley Conference victory Friday.

Three straight baskets by Jim Strasser, Mike Peters and Larry Bowman, gave OHS its first lead (53-52) with 2:15 left, since early in the game. But Mark Bredeck scored three points and Don Otten four to put the Raiders on top, 59-53. After two free throes by Peters, Tom Dekker put on the icing with three more Raider points.

North, which is now 4-3 in the conference, was led by Mark Hildebrand and Richie Peterson, who scored 14 points each. OHS' Tom Last led all scorers, with 20 points. The Indians now are 1-7 in the league.

Green Bay East Replaces Neenah as Leader in FRVC

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — The Green Bay East High School basketball Red Devils dropped Neenah from the Fox River Valley Conference lead Friday night and took over the top spot themselves.

GBE came from behind to score a 64-57 victory to boost its record to 6-1. Neenah, the state's seventh-rated team, is now tied for second place with Fond du Lac and Green Bay West, at 6-2 The Red Devils will risk their lead tonight in a makeup game at Sheboygan North.

There were many reasons why GBE emerged the victor last night. Mark Harrington came into his own, popping in pressure buckets when he had to Paul Casanova took control of the floor game in the second half when it appeared Neenah, after a quick start to open the second half, was ready to pull away.

Spark Drive

The reserve play of Bob Vander Zanden, particularly in the first half, sparked the east drive. It was Harrington and Casanova who came around when Van went to the bench with five personals in the opening seconds of the fourth quarter.

But if you had to put your finger on any one element in stacking up this victory, it would have to be in the direction of the Devils' big horse, John De Young.

De Young was nothing short of magnificent. He was all over both backboards. He was superb on defense. He set up screens, brought the ball down the floor when he had to . . . and he scored 27 points.

De Young was a tired warrior in the late stages, but when he got the help he needed from Harrington, Casanova, Chuck Hougard, and Bill Berry down the stretch, the Devils were in

Neenah, after dropping behind, 3-1, in the opening moment, copped the lead at 4-3 and never surrendered it until Harrington meshed a free one to tie the score, at 20-20, late in the second quarter. Tom Kopitzke, who canned 19 points to lead the Rockets, broke the tie but Vander Zanden drove the middle to knot the works at halftime, 22-22.

Neenah sprang quickly to the lead as the second half opened, swishing four straight buckets. East dogged its way back into contention the rest of the way, and with the score 37-32 against them, Casanova netted a brace of charities. Harrington a short bucket. De Young a driver and Harrington a jumper as the Devils bolted to a 40-38 third quarter advantage

The Devils, put everything in the last quarter in the face of a determined Neenah press and steadily pulled away to a 45-38 lead. Neenah, which lost is first game to Green Bay West last week, forged to within 49-46, but De Young's twisting jumps shot from the corner propelled the Devils on the way to a 58-46 cushion.

East's Patriots held a 16-11 edge after the first quarter but faltered in the second with frigid shooting. The Patriots managed only nine points in the second frame to the Cardinals' 22.

Tom Jones collected two field goals, Pete Kliefoth, Bob Birkholz had one each and Scott Wenzlau added a free throw for the only scoring for East in the second canto. Fond du Lac hit on eight of 22 second quarter shots in that frame as they gained a 33-25 halftime margin.

AHS-W Pulls Away in Final 9:13 To Defeat South Quint, 59-52

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

Appleton West's senior and sophomore scoring power proved too much for Sheboygan South High School's basketball team in Seims gym Friday night.

Seniors Mark Catlin and Mark Schroeder and sophs Tim Moriarty and Rick Reitzner all blazed away at double-figure velocity as the Terrors downed South, 59-52, to square their Fox River Valley Conference record at 4-4.

The Redmen couldn't cope with the speed and balance of West in the final 9:13 of play, as the Terrors broke open a 37-all game and achieved a 22-15 edge the rest of the way.

With their second straight win, the Dick Emanuel-coached Terrors boosted their home court record to 4-1 and their over-all mark to 5-5. South now owns a 3-5 league record.

Scores 16 Points

The ever-improving Moriarty set the winners' pace with 16 points — including a 7-for-12 field goal shooting performance.

Catlin, off to a slow start because of a sore neck, came on strong to net 15 points — including a 9-point third quarter. Catlin didn't attempt a shot for the first 13 minutes of the game.

Schroeder and Reitzner each zeroed in for 12 Terror points. Mike Weber paced South, with 16 points, while Pete Fischer and Ron Miller added 13 and 10, respectively. The Terrors' strong defensive pressure blanked Fischer in the second half — he got off only three shots from the floor — after his hot 13-point first half.

In the close, raggedly-played first half, the score was tied five times and the lead changed hands six times. West, which committed nine turn-overs in the first half, opened a 6-point lead (13-12) at one stage. But South's Fischer broke loose for seven straight points to give his team a 19-18 lead with 3:29 remaining in the second quarter.

South led at intermission time, 26-24, on Fischer's fast-break goal with 42 seconds left.

It took the Terrors almost five minutes to gain its first second-half lead. Schroeder drove for a goal with 3:09 left in the period, for a 37-35 West lead. Miller's 15-footer gave South its final tie — with 1:24 remaining.

Reitzner scored on a lay-up, with 1:13 remaining, and the Terrors were out front to stay. Catlin and Reitzner added a pair of points apiece, while South's only response was a Weber free throw — and West led, 43-38, at quarter's end.

While the Terrors held South scoreless for the first 2½ minutes of the final period, Catlin sank a pair of free throws and Reitzner sank a corner shot for West's largest lead of the game—47-38.

Four times, South reduced its deficit to five points, but each time West moved back out of danger. The Terrors chalked up several easy baskets on fast breaks as the Redmen showed signs of tiring.

For the game, West shot at a 39.1 per cent clip from the field (25 goals in 64 attempts). South posted a 36.4 mark (on 20 of 55).

Lombardi Rumored as Possible Baseball Czar

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Green Bay Packer general manager Vince Lombardi would accept job of commissioner of baseball if it were offered him, The Atlanta Journal reported Friday. Lombardi described the report as "interesting."

The Journal, in a story by baseball writer Wilt Browning, quoted Atlanta Braves star Hank Aaron as saying he has been told by sources close to Lombardi that the former Packer coach would take the job.

"My information comes from a very reliable source," Aaron was quoted as saying. "Vince was close to baseball before and someone told me — someone very close to him — that Vince probably would accept the commissioner's job if he could have a sturdy hand in it.

"I'm not campaigning for anybody. I'm just repeating what I've been told and something I have to believe."

The Journal quoted Lombardi, in an interview from Miami, as indicating he might consider the job.

"It's interesting, but I don't know whether I would or not. It's a great position and it's a job of great prestige. But I doubt that I would be asked, but I would have to say that's interesting," Lombardi was quoted as saying.

Wittenberg Panel Findings May Warrant Hiring Architect

WITTENBERG — A committee of school board members, organized to recommend features for a proposed new high school here, visited schools in Marshfield and Athens today and may recommend hiring an architect Monday at the board meeting at Birnamwood.

H. P. Kusserow, administrative assistant said the board is examining school construction and may commission a plan emphasizing flexible modular design. This allows special scheduling of classes with modules of 12 to 20 minutes each. Several modules are used to make class periods of varying length.

The panel also will examine features of the Little Chute High School. They recently visited the Tomah High School.

Design innovations, discussed at a recent meeting, included double windows with builtin venetian blinds, visible classrooms, a carpeted library, extensive shops, a three-station gymnasium with motorized dividing door, an uaditorium, science-laboratory-classrooms and band and choral rehearsal areas.

Board members noted trends highlight importance of updating and revising curricular schedules at both the elementary and secondary levels. The flexible modular system allows computer-oriented scheduling which fits each student's schedule to his needs.

At a recent meeting the school board also discussed job descriptions relating to administrative and supervisory personnel.

College Freshman May Get Fewer Federal Grants

A surprise cut in federal funds to aid needy students planning to enter universities and colleges next fall is worrying financial aid directors and high school counselors, the Wisconsin State Universities system office reports.

Office of Education administrators in Washington, D.C., estimate that — unless the funds are restored by Congress — only about 32,000 freshmen will receive Educational Opportunity Grants (EOG) for 1969-70, compared with some 145,000 freshmen getting such grants in the nation this year.

In the Wisconsin State Universities system, a similar 78 per cent cut in numbers of students helped would mean that only 620 freshmen would receive the federal grants, compared with 2,819 this year. The state universities have submitted requests for $1,820,000 in EOG funds to aid 3,201 freshmen during 1969-70.

Town of Center firemen had difficulty reaching the shed which is near the Flaherty home, because of deep snow.

The blaze broke out above the end of the shed where the animals were housed. Two calves and many cats and dogs were badly burned and had to be destroyed. Two riding horses were saved.

Flaherty tried to lead the animals to safety when he discovered the blaze, firemen said, but was forced back by dense smoke. Hay also was stored in the building.

Annual Report

$500,000 Mark Passed In Waupaca Building

WAUPACA — Industrial and government building here during 1968 helped push the year's construction dollar volume past the one-half million mark.

In his annual report, Gerald Schultz, building inspector, noted 107 building permits were issued. The projects represent $507,075 in construction. Commercial and industrial construction maintained a good pace for the year, however, residential construction dropped to only four new homes. This is compared with 15 built in 1967.

In addition Schultz also issued 37 electrical permits and 17 plumbing permits.

Fees collected for all permits totaled $876.

A breakdown of the permits showed the largest dollar volume went for industrial building. The largest of the two industrial building projects was $130,000 for an addition to Waupaca Foundry. The other was a $35,000 project for Bowlby Candy.

A new sales and service building, with an estimated cost of $102,000, is being constructed by Waupaca Motor Sales was the lone commercial permit issued Twelve permits totaling $20,100 were issued for commercial remodeling and additions.

The largest number of permits were issued for residential remodeling and additions. The 60 permits issued represented an estimate $41,525. The four new homes were constructed for an estimated cost of $66,000, Schultz reported.

Tax exempt building, primarily city and county projects, contributed $122,050 to the total construction figure. Three permits issued during the year were for a new city hall, a community center and the remodeling of the Waupaca County jail basement which will be the new offices for the Waupaca County Department of Health and Social Services.

Municipal Union Accusation

Unfair Labor Practices Charged in Menasha

MENASHA — Unfair labor practice charges are to be filed against the city by Local 1035, American Federation of State, County & Municipal Employes, AFL-CIO, accusing the city through one of its officers of using "intimidation and coercion" to persuade public works employes to attempt to replace the union.

Robert J. Oberbeck, Madison, executive director of the state council of the AFSCME, notified city officials and a state hearing officer of the unfair labor practice charge during a hearing Thursday by the Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission (WERC).

Replace Agent

The hearing was to gather testimony in the petition by some public works department employes to replace Local 1035 with a new organization as bargaining agent for the employes in the streets, sanitation and park departments.

The city has delayed negotiating with the employes to set new pay and benefits for the new year because of the unsettled representation question.

Robert M. McCormick, officer in charge of Thursday's hearing, advised the city that "the prudent thing to do" would be to refrain from further negotiations until the question of which group represents the majority of the employes is settled.

McCormick also said that the WERC would put off a decision on the representational question until the unfair labor practice question was settled, if Local 1035 files the complaint.

Oberbeck said during prehearing consultation with McCormick and representatives of the city and the petitioning employes, that the main concern of Local 1035 was to have negotiations started. He contended that the filing of the petition for a new bargaining group was the cause of the delay in negotiations, and that an unnamed supervisory employe of the city was responsible for the petition being circulated among the employes.

Filed Next Week

He told a reporter after the hearing that the unfair practice charges would be filed as soon as they can be drawn up, probably within the next week.

City Atty. Richard Steffens contended the city is willing to bargain "with anyone," but is unable to decide with whom at this point, not knowing which group represents the majority of workers.

Steffens described the city as "an innocent bystander" and also professed innocence of the identity of the supervisory employe Oberbeck was accusing.

In light of the union's intentions to file the charges, the proceedings Thursday before McCormick were of little immediate importance, although in the long run they could determine whether the WERC will dismiss the petition for a new bargaining unit or order an election to determine whether Local 1035 or the proposed new unit represents the majority of employes in the public works department.

Sole Witness

Vincent Huntington, senior equipment operator for the street department and the leader of the effort to replace Locel 1035, wars the sole witness called to testify.

Overbeck told McCormick that Local 1035's case in the hearing would ride on being able to prove Huntington was a supervisory employe and therefore unable to petition for new representation for the other workers in the departments. Oberbeck also stressed in conversation with Steffens that someone other than Huntington was the supervisory employe whose alleged activities were to be the basis for the unfair labor practice charges.

Dennis Morgan Won't Seek Laird's Seat

Wife's Poor Health Given as Reason For His Decision

MILWAUKEE, (AP) — Actor Dennis Morgan, citing concern for his wife's health, told supporters in Wisconsin's 7th Congressional District Friday he would not be a candidate for the seat to be vacated by Rep. Melvin Laird, R-Wis.

Laird has been appointed secretary of defense in President-elect Nixon's cabinet.

Morgan was quoted as saying he had talked to his wife's doctors and they said she should not be involved in what would be a difficult campaign in the sprawling 15-county district.

Morgan and his wife, the former Lillian Vedder, are both former Marshfield residents. She was said to have been in ill health for some time and was hospitalized over the Christmas holiday.

OSU President Urged to Ask Regents to Reinstate 90 Blacks

BY MARK WEBB
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — The Advisory Committee for the Program for Culturally Distinct Students at Oshkosh State University late Friday afternoon recommended by an 8-6 vote that President Roger Guiles request the Board of Regents to reinstate immediately the 90 black students expelled from the campus.

The resolution also urged the possibility of student court proceedings at the discretion of the university administration. The committee hoped to set up a meeting with Guiles on Monday to discuss Friday's actions.

Also, the committee recommended that the executive committee of the faculty senate appoint a committee consisting mainly of representatives of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP), the Office of Student Affairs, and faculty senate to investigate the operation of the financial aids office.

Another sit-in demonstration was planned for 10:30 a.m. today and another for 10:30 a.m. Monday.

Remove Director

Last November, Black Student Union representatives on campus as part of five demands, urged that Maurice Spitler, financial aids director, be removed from office. The Negroes charged that Spitler was prejudiced against the blacks and that the director hampered aids' requests.

The committee met in closed session after its open session in the morning was disrupted by nine black men, reportedly members of the militant Black People's Alliance, University of Wisconsin, Madison.

An audience of some 300 students and faculty, including a contingent of black students who were expelled for taking part in the Nov. 21 demonstration, engaged in sometimes loud debate with members of the advisory committee who were reporting on progress of the administration to help provide a black cultural center on campus and to hire Negros for the faculty. The committee was also debating what recommendation it should make to Presdent Roger Guiles and the Board of Regents concerning the academic standing of the 90 expelled students.

Shortly before noon a racous fire alarm sounded throughout Clow Social Science Center where the meeting was conducted. By the time it was stopped five minutes later, the nine blacks had made their way to the front of the lecture room. Facing the assembly, they sat on the edge of the tables being used by the committee.

Taken Over

The leader of the nine announced, "we've taken over this meeting." He and his comrades, he said, were members of Wapendizi Weusi, a black nationalist organization. The leader was later referred to by white students as "Edwards."

The leaders chided the assembly which was mostly white. "When are you going to understand that power only concedes to power?"

The university administration, he continued, "defines how you are to protest, how you are to get things done." He asked when they would decide for themselves how to define their way to protest.

The only power students have, he said, is "the power to disrupt."

But while the 90 "black brothers and sisters" remain unable to attend school, he continued, "you sit in your dorms" and merely talk about doing something.

"Are you ready to bring about a change today?" he asked. "Then take it over (OSU)! Close it down!"

He then "apologized" for his group having interrupted the meeting and noted that the committee and assembly still wanted more debate on reinstatement of the expelled students. The nine left the hall.

Some members of the committee and the audience also left the hall and chairman Donald Jorgenson, OSU registrar, called a closed meeting for 2 p.m.

A group of about 50 students, almost all white, crossed Algoma Boulevard to Dempsey Hall, the administration building, and jammed the hallway outside the executive offices and the office of President Guiles.

One OSU administrator emerged from the suite of offices and refused to grant the students entry. As the official attempted to leave, one student momentarily held onto the official.

Hands Off

"Take your hand off me," the official warned and was met by a loud reply, "Take your hands off the black students." The official left

Narcotics Count Bond Cut Denied To Wounded GI

Robert G. VandenWildenberg, 19, 1424 N. Richmond St., Appleton, was returned to Outagamie County Jail under $1,500 bond Thursday afternoon after Judge Nick F. Schaefer refused to lower the bond.

An attorney for the youth, who is charged with possession of marijuana, asked for the bond reduction Wednesday, after Schaefer set a preliminary hearing for Jan. 14. Schaefer asked for a bail bond study by the State Department of Health and Social Services

In refusing to lower the bond, Schaefer said he was taking into consideration, among other things, the fact that military authorities had filed a detainer against VandenWildenberg.

The youth, who reportedly is awaiting a medical discharge from the Army, was wounded in Vietnam combat in November 1967.

He was charged Tuesday following investigation by Appleton detectives, who allege they found a large amount of marijuana in his house.

Regents Crack Down

End Obscenities or Move Off Campus, Cardinal Told

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The University of Wisconsin Board of Regents today cracked down on the Daily Cardinal in response to the use of allegedly obscene language in a number of issues last fall in the student newspaper published on the campus here.

In a close 4-3 vote the regents ordered that subsidies for the newspaper's summer edition be ended; that the editorial offices be moved off campus in the fall unless standards of the publication change but that the printing of the paper continue in University facilities if the contents of the newspaper meet language standards used in the daily and weekly press of Wisconsin.

Even if the editorial content of the Cardinal no longer contains four-letter words, the student newspaper will be charged rental fees for its office space starting next fall, the regents agreed.

Refused to Appear

The action follows the rejection by the student board of the paper to appear before Friday's regents session. The regents last November told the newspaper's student staff to appear before the regents with a plan to prevent the use of obscene language in the future.

Four-letter words had spotted columns of commentary and some news copy throughout the fall.

The students replied editorially that they would refuse to attend the session, that they do not believe in the concept of obscene language and that they believe that "some deeds—such as some regent actions—are obscene."

The action taken by the regents was mixed in impact because of the Cardinal's tangled operations. The newspaper claims it is independent but is published in university facilities.

That situation arose in 1956 when the newspaper faced financial difficulties off - campus and in response agreed to bring its operations more closely into alliance with the school. Presses owned by the newspaper were given to the university with the assurance that they might be used for the publication of a student newspaper.

Modern Plant

The Cardinal is now located in the building which houses the UW journalism school and its printing plant is considered one of the most modern small operations in the state.

The action stopped short of throwing the Cardinal off campus but will result in its first rent payments.

UW President Fred H. Harrington said he agreed that the Cardinal should pay rent but stressed that the publication must remain independent. His comments were echoed by Madison campus chancellor H. Edwin Young.

"I think the students associated with the Cardinal were discourteous to the regents in not coming to this meeting," said Harrington. "I consider that deplorable, just as I consider some of the language used in the Cardinal to be deplorable and unnecessary.

Leading the fight for the action against the newspaper was regent James Nellen, of De Pere.

Weather Felt

Patients Crowd Area Hospitals

An oversupply of sprains, strains and sundry sufferings from winter's cold and snow has crowded two Fox Cities hospitals beyond their capacity and left a third near its maximum number of patients.

Hospital officials, however, say this is to be expected at this time of year.

Both St. Elizabeth, in Appleton, and Theda Clark in Neenah are over capacity and are using every space available.

And although both hospitals have or are in the process of completing additions, which will increase the number of beds, neither is ready to open up all the new areas, either because they aren't complete or not yet completely staffed.

St. Elizabeth, with a present 206-bed capacity has about 230 patients and is doubling up on private rooms, putting beds in the sun rooms, lounges and the mothers' room

Emergency Admissions

Admissions are accepted on an emergency basis only at present but it is the only hospital of the four to have this policy

Theda Clark, with a 300-bed capacity, has 314 patients. To accommodate them, the older section of the hospital had to be opened and beds had to be put into alcoves and corridors.

But no one is turned away, according to the administration. Both Kaukauna Community and Appleton Memorial hospitals have a "higher than usual occupancy rate," but capacity has not been reached at either.

Appleton Memorial, with the currently staffed 200 bed capacity, has 163 admissions and Kaukauna, with 60 beds, has 53 filled. Neither has made a decision as to what would be done if capacity was reached.

None of the administrators attribute the increase to any particular cause and all agree that it cannot be attributed to the now-famous Hong Kong flu.

Waupaca Sets Open House For City Hall

WAUPACA — Open house at the new city hall has been set for 2 to 5 p.m. Feb. 16. The date and time was picked Tuesday at the council's first meeting in the new building.

The council conducted its first meeting of 1969 in the new carpeted chambers on the lower level of the city hall which is attached to the south side of the Armory

Offices on the upper level include those of the city clerk, treasurer and police department. Along with the council chambers the offices of the city engineer and assessor-building inspector are on the lower level.

It became necessary to move the city offices along with the fire department when the State Industrial Commission ordered the old city hall either be remodeled to meet safety standards or be vacated. Since that time the fire department has moved into the garage at the armory and the city offices into the quarters in an addition to the building.

Mayor Lloyd Matheson said that city officials belonging to the Small Cities Conference along with the officials from villages and cities in Waupaca County will be invited to attend the open house.

At the first meeting in the new quarters heat and water were ordered shut off in the old city hall which is now used for storage only.

Valley Employers Deny Ad Policy Circumvents Blacks

BY RICHARD JACOBSON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Representatives of three large Fox Valley industrial corporations Friday took issue with statements made by a state official concerning the hiring of minority groups.

On Wednesday, Joseph Fagan, chairman of the State Department of Industry, Labor and Human Relations, Madison, charged that employers in the Fox Cities area who say they would hire Negroes and other minorities are making "empty gestures" in their help-wanted advertising.

The local officials also disputed statements by Fagan that employers of this area only advertise in Fox River Valley newspapers, excluding the Milwaukee papers, and Fagan's contention about the lack of recruitment programs of employers.

50-Mile Radius

Paul Dodge, who handles personnel matters for the Neenah Foundry, pointed out his firm has limited its help wanted advertising to media which covers a 50-mile radius of the Fox Cities.

Dodge said the foundry had not advertised in the Milwaukee market because workers would not come from 100 miles away to work in Neenah.

However, the foundry official noted that a dozen Negroes have been employed at the Neenah firm in recent years. At one time six Negroes were employed there, but there are none at present.

Of those employed, Dodge indicated that most of them had stayed for short durations.

"Why should they come up here to work?" he asked.

An American Can Corporation official from its Neenah office, who handles the hourly employment work for the firm in the Twin City area, said "American Can hires through the state employment service."

However, he noted the company has advertised extensively through the press. "When I place an ad, I look for an area in the state where there is an abundance of labor. The last time we recruited through the press, we went as far north as Superior, west to Eau Claire and La Crosse, east to Manitowoc, and south just beyond Fond du Lac," he said.

"The only reason we didn't advertise in Milwaukee, is because, according to state employment reports, their area was in a tight labor market."

Milwaukee, Chicago

However, "we have no objections in going into the Milwaukee area," he added. The American Can official stressed that he has placed ads in the Milwaukee Journal and Chicago Tribune.

He emphasized that American Can actively recruits employes in high schools and universities throughout the country, including Negro colleges.

"We encourage the Negro to work up here but it's a hard thing to accomplish," the American Can official said. He explained that the problem is housing, "which most Negroes could not afford, and the problem they would have in making a social adjustment."

He noted that the firm had employed a Negro who came off the campus at Superior. "He got along real well with everyone and was well accepted. Now if they all could get along like that. . ."

Hired Qualified

Another top level official at the Neenah office said: "As far as employment is concerned, we'll hire anyone, no matter what his color is, if he qualified for the position."

Robert Thoms, corporate manager of the equal opportunity programs at Kimberly-Clark Corporation, Neenah, said "our college recruitment program is carried on throughout the country, including a dozen or more predominantly Negro schools."

Thoms noted most of the firm's labor requirements come from the community in which they operate. "We recruit for certain positions, and have for a number of years, across the nation, and without any discrimination," he said.

State Service

"Our corporation has had a long relationship with the state employment services in this area and they have served our needs quite well," Thoms explained.

"We will consider any candidate, no matter where he resides, no matter what race, creed or color," he added.

Thoms pointed out that Kimberly-Clark has Negro employes throughout "our many plants located in the country."

"We have a Negro working today in our Neenah mill," he said.

Thoms also said that Kimberly-Clark has made job offers to students at Negro colleges in practically every mill in the company.

Candidate's Choice

"But a candidate has his views on where he wants to work. A recent candidate from Tennessee preferred to work in Memphis," Thoms declared.

However, he emphasized that "we'd be happy to interview a Negro for work here if he resided in Milwaukee."

Thoms, Dodge and the American Can officials supported the position of A. P. Engebretson, district director for the Appleton and Neenah offices of the State Department of Industry, Labor and Human Relations.

Engebretson disagreed with Fagan, his superior, Engebret-Fagan, his superior, Engebret-discussed the minority issue with numerous Fox Cities employers and all assured him they would consider all qualified applicants for positions.

The Dedication of the Altar of sacrifice is a solemn and impressive rite in the Catholic Church. Recently, a stone altar was dedicated at the new St. Bernard Church by the Most Rev. Aloysius Wycislo, bishop of Green Bay, who is assisted by the Rev. Orville Janssen, pastor. The light-colored stone altar is large with the table top measuring eight feet in length and 40 inches in width. It occupies the central position and is located directly under a skylight which is about 22 feet in diameter. No one in the church is any more than nine pews from the altar. Traditional Rites Mark Altar Consecration

And another angel came and stood at the altar, having a golden censer; and there was given unto him much incense that he should offer it with the prayers of all saints upon the golden altar, which was before the throne. And the smoke of the incense, which came with the prayers of the saints ascended up before God out of the angel's hand.

Rev. 8, v. 3 and 4
New Testament

In a church the altar holds a prominent and honored place for on it sacrifices are made and from it the holy communion meal is offered.

Because of its prominence, one of the most colorful ceremonies in a Catholic church is its dedication, especially when the "holy table" is made of stone.

Recently, such rites were performed at St. Bernard Church, the only church in Appleton at present to have a stone altar of sacrifice.

Such altars do exist in St. Mary, St. Joseph and St. Therese but they now are altars of reposition of the blessed sacrament and portable wood altars have been constructed to serve as altars of sacrifice.

Impressive Stone

The large, beautiful light colored travertine altar and platform was consecrated Dec. 21 by the Most Rev. Aloysius Wycislo, bishop of Green Bay. He was assisted by the Rev. James Vanden Hogen, secretary to the bishop; the Rev. Orville Janssen and the Rev. John Neuser, pastor and associate, respectively, of St. Bernard.

To emphasize the importance and holiness of the altar, the church has provided an impressive and symbolic ceremony for its consecretation, involving three principal parts.

The first is purification, symbolizing the expulsion of every evil; the second is the ceremony of the procession with the relics, which are entombed in the altar, and the third, the formal consecration and dedication to the exclusive worship of God.

The rite begins with the litany of all saints in which the congregation calls upon God and his saints, especially those to whom the altar is dedicated, and those whose relics are placed in it, to make this a truly holy place. The relic entombed in St. Bernard is that of St. Claude, an early Christian martyr about whom little is known.

The purification of the altar is done by sprinkling it with "Gregorian Water," a mixture composed of water, ashes and wine. This is the only time in the Roman liturgy that such a mixture is used.

Five Crosses

Then, invoking the blessed Trinity, five crosses are traced on the altar.

For the second part of the ceremony, the bishop changes into white vestments, symbolic of the joyful act of commemorating the triumph of the martyrs over the forces of evil.

During this ceremony, the relics from the martyr are placed into the sepulcher — a small cavity in the table top, which is then cemented into place with blessed cement.

The relic carries with it the sense of continuity of the Christian life around the altar. Martyrs who died for their faith got their strength from the Christ of the mass in their time, even as those partaking of the mass today do.

The custom of using relics for this kind of symbolic continuity come from the accident of the masses offered on graves in the catacombs during the early Roman persecutions.

Anointment

The actual consecration of the altar is the third part of the ceremony. First, the altar is anointed in five places — in each of the four corners and in the center. Sacred chrism — a mixture of olive and balsam oils — is used, the same as in baptism and confirmation.

Next, the altar is incensed. Five pieces of incense are placed in each of the crosses where the altar was anointed with chrism. Short wax tapers are placed on the incense and these are lit.

Ending the ceremony is a mass, an essential part of the consecration. The whole purpose of the consecration is to prepare a fitting place for the sacrifice, the center of Catholic worship.

The entire ceremony is symbolic of the setting aside of something to the total service of God. And this symbol reaps God's own promise in the Old Testament book of Exodus: "In all places where I record my name, I will come unto you and I will bless you."

Nazarene Church Shows Increase

Although no statistics were released, the year-end report of the Church of the Nazarene states that Sunday school and church attendance doubled in 1968.

The announcement came from the Rev. R.M. Brunner, who has been in charge of the congregation for the past 13 months.

According to the minister, attendance records were broken by having the largest vacation Bible school and Sunday school enrollment in the small church's history. The church also has an active youth group that carries on a spiritual, social and musical program.

Future plans are to sell the wooded lots and chapel at 1700 N. Graceland Ave., and build a church and educational unit near Appleton High School-East.

This report is in line with the year-end report of the Church of the Nazarene, International, which opened two new liberal arts colleges and reached a membership of 464,962 — a net gain of 11,154 over 1967.

The two new Nazarene Colleges are located at Olathe, Kan., and Mt. Vernon, Ohio. This pushed the total in the 12 Nazarene educational institutions to 9,026.

Domestic membership was recorded at 377,706, an increase of 6,589. There are 6,211 Nazarene churches in the world.

Four From Area Named to New Methodist Agency

Four area people are among 40 to be named to a newly-formed committee of the United Methodist Church, which will administer the Fund for Reconciliation in Wisconsin.

Bishop Ralph Taylor Alton, Madison, named the 40 to the Wisconsin Area Quadrennial Emphasis Committee this week. The Fund is seeking $20 million nationally to meet challenges of race and poverty through the quadrennium ending in 1972. Half of the amount raised in Wisconsin will be retained for action projects in the state.

Among those named are Mrs. John Helms, Neenah; the Rev. Charles Logsdon, Appleton; Ronald Gibbs, Oshkosh, and Mrs. Erwin Wickstrom, Wittenberg.

The Committee not only will review requests that come to the church for funds and the final designation of expenditures, but may also be empowered to initiate investigation of areas of special concern that have not been brought to the attention of the group by others.

The group includes representatives of both the former Methodist and Evangelical United Brethren churches which were joined in 1968.

Assembly of God Prayer Conference Scheduled Monday

A district-sponsored prayer conference has been scheduled Monday at the Church of the Open Bible, Assembly of God.

From 10:30 a.m. until about 4:30 p.m. there will be continuous prayer and scriptural readings. The conference will resume at 7:30 p.m. for the concluding service.

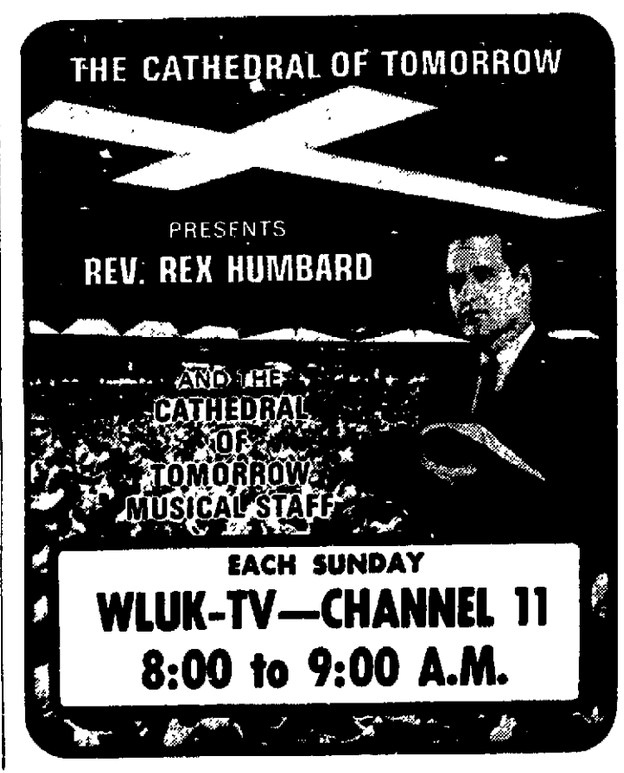

Rev. Curtis

Leading the prayer conference will be the Rev. Lyle E. Curtis, Waupaca, superintendent of the Wisconsin and Northern Michigan District of the Assemblies of God. The Rev. Mr. Curtis has been superintendent for three years and assistant for six. Before that he served several parishes in the state.

Better Preaching May Cost Britons $120,000

LONDON (AP) — Most of the estimated 50,000 sermons preached in Britain's churches each Sunday would be better if the preachers were properly trained, says the College of Preachers, an Anglican foundation which is trying to raise 50,000 pounds ($120,000) to further its work at Elfinsward Diocesan House in Sussex.

The parsonic voice is no longer "a universal affliction" says the Rev. D. W. Cleverly Ford, director, who aims to teach clergy to speak simply without mannerisms.

Slovak Party Chief Criticizes 'Disruptive' National Press

PRAGUE (AP) — Slovak Communist Party boss Gustav Husak, often criticized for being too friendly with Czechoslovakia's Soviet occupiers, celebrated his 56th birthday Friday night with a slashing attack on the nation's press as a "disrupting force in our country."

It came while his public standing was at a particularly low ebb. Many feel Husak has been a prime mover in the party campaign to demote National Assembly President Josef Smrkovsky, a liberal leader too popular for the Kremlin's liking.

Husak told applauding party officials in Dubnica, central Slovakia, that some members of the mass media were "putting the knife to the throat" of the Prague leadership. "We must get rid of these underhanded dealings," he urged in a televised speech.

"Antiparty Activity"

Husak called for an "offensive against antiparty activity—groups of people who meet secretly in various corners, in apartments, and think up actions and campaigns, and then get these campaigns through the mass media into the public."

This referred to recent press attacks on Husak during the political crisis over Smrkovsky and public threats of strikes and demonstrations if the government fails to enact reforms promised before the Soviet invasion last August.

Husak claimed the press attacks really were directed against the Slovak Communist Party. "They don't touch me very much personally," he said. "Right-wing forces want to discredit somebody an they have chosen me."

Two Czech artists immediately complained to President Ludvik Svoboda that Husak's remarks were "one step away from police interrogation, shadowing of people and arresting people—the hardest attack of a top Czechoslovak politician against democratic socialism since January 1968."

Commonwealth Bargaining Over Rhodesia Issue

LONDON (AP) — Britain's head-on clash with most of its 27 Commonwealth partners over Rhodesia moved today into a backstage bargaining phase posing issues crucial for survival of the global family of nations.

At the same time African and Asian leaders privately voiced fears that Prime Minister Harold Wilson intends coming to terms with Rhodesian leaders. In doing so, he would be defying overwhelming commonwealth denunciations of his projected compromise.

"If that deal were to be reached," said the president of one African state, "my government would not want to remain a member of a Commonwealth that prides itself on its multiracialism."

The African leader, who declined to be identified, told newsmen the British government already has been informally advised of his position. He added that other African countries also would be likely to turn away from the Commonwealth.

Today in History

Today is Saturday, Jan 11, the 11th day of 1969. There are 354 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history.

On this date in 1943, during World War II, the United States and Britain relinquished extra-territorial rights in China.

In 1569, the first lottery in England was drawn in St. Paul's Cathedral under patronage of Queen Elizabeth I.

In 1757, the American statesman and first secretary of the treasurey, Alexander Hamilton, was born in the West Indies.

In 1785, the Continental Congress convened in New York.

In 1942, Japanese invaders were moving into the Dutch East Indies early in the Pacific war.

In 1945, a truce was reached in the Greek civil war.

Ten years ago: The United States, Britain and West Germany rejected a Soviet proposal for a 28-nation conference to negotiate a German peace treaty.

Five years ago: The U. S. government released a report that cigarette smoking is a definite health hazard.

To Your Good Health

Follow Doctor's Advice; Take Your Medicine

BY GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: About three months ago I had a strep throat. The doctor gave me a shot and enough penicillin for 10 days. In a few days I thought I was well and didn't take all the pills.

In about a month I got this bad throat infection again. This time I had several nodes in my throat and the lymph glands swelled.

My throat got all right after medication but the lymph nodes are still there. The doctor has examined my throat again and said he couldn't find anything wrong and told me to come back in a month. I can't help worrying about it. Would you recommend my seeing another doctor, or do you think I'm just scared? — Mrs. A.K.B.

Just scared, I'd say. But next time when your doctor gives you penicillin or other antibiotic to take for any specified length of time (or any particuar number of tablets or capsules) take them all.

Dr. Thosteson

To understand why, you need to know how the wonder drugs work. They do not destroy germs. Instead, they prevent them from multiplying — and then your body's natural defenses can take care of the remaining germs.

When you stopped taking your penicillin, you evidently did so before the infection in your throat was entirely stamped out. You felt better — but some germs still survived. So presently they began to multiply again, and soon you had a full-blown infection again.

There is a second, and important, danger in stopping too soon. Some of the surviving germs by then may have become resistant to the antibiotics — that is, they can continue to multiply in spite of the medication, and then another one has to be used.

Anyway, with your second bout of infection, your system had to go to work harder fighting the germs. This put extra strain on your lymph glands, with resultant swelling.

The probability is that these glands will return to normal size in time. They usually do, if they have not been subjected to too much overloading.

If I were you, I'd go back to the doctor, as he directed, in a month. I see no purpose in going to anyone else or in being so scared.

But next time you are told to take a specified amount of medication, follow the instructions. Your doctor didn't give you enough for 10 days just to be arbitrary. He gave you that much because you needed that much to control your infection thoroughly instead of just temporarily.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been hoarse for months and also have a constant sore throat and plugged up and runny nose. I have been to two doctors. One said I should have a cancer test and the other said it was sinus. I have put off having the cancer test because I am afraid of having the doctor put anything down my throat. Could sinus cause me to be hoarse? — Mrs. B.W.

Stop wasting time and taking chances. Continued hoarseness is one of the "cancer danger signals." Your sinus trouble, plus perhaps other factors, could cause hoarseness but, since cancer is a more serious threat, have that examination before waiting any longer.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have always had a protruding abdomen and it seems to get worse. I am 21. What can I do to reverse the situation or keep it from getting worse? I am 5 feet 2½ and weigh 130 pounds. — DESPERATE.

To be blunt about it: practice better posture, lose 20 pounds, and take up bowling or some other regular exercise.

Tax Formula Change Devised By Tarr Force

over on full value, from 124 to $26.

Municipalities with middle rates, from $20 to $35 of full value, would increase from $1,579 to 1,723, comparing 1967 full value levies collected in 1968 with the rates that would have prevailed under the new formula.

But the plan also provides for a system of transitional state payments over a period of three years to cushion the shock on those localities that would otherwise face higher local taxes immediately. Thus on the basis of the 1967 rate levels, only two municipalities would face very high rates immediately, said James R. Morgan of the State Department of Revenue who worked with the group. He said that about 79 per cent of the municipalities on the basis of their 1967 true value rates would be helped.

Nevertheless, it appeared likely that because the aid to many of them would be negligible, the report won't be hailed with any enthusiasm, and especially by the larger cities of the state which through the new Alliance for Cities have campaigned clamorously for a more generous state legislative program of local tax relief.

Milwaukee Rates

Milwaukee, for example, where Mayor Henry Maier has been one of the most vociferous critics of the state's fiscal policy toward cities, in 1967 had a true value rate of $41. Under the new formula, that would be cut to $38.18, without taking into account Milwaukee tax increases in 1968 and 1969.

The new school aid proposal, meanwhile, falls far short of what the school lobby and the State Department of Public Instruction have proposed, and will almost surely generate efforts in the Legislature to amend it upward.

The $20 million to be raised by the new state tax on automobiles, if the Legislature accepts the proposal, will raise somewhat the total redistribution benefits to the localities.

The auto taxing plan was not explained in detail, but it was understood that the commission favors the so-called California plan of a special state tax equal to 2 per cent of depreciated value, in addition to the existing state motor vehicle registration fee of $18.15. Thus a car valued at $3,000 would be liable for a new state tax of $60, which would be used to hold down the spiralling trend of local property taxes.

Other Features

Other highlights of the Tarr report include:

—A proposal to freeze present state highway fund allocations to localities at their present level, and to use State Highway Department revenue gains in future years on a basis more nearly reflecting needs as shown by the traffic density on the several highway systems.

—Creation o fa state boundary review commission which would have the power to approve or veto all municipal annexations, consolidations, and incorporations, and permit municipalities to annex unincorporated territory without a referendum of the residents or land-holders involved, if the annexation, met the standards of the commission.

—A recommendation that the state be given power by law to order annexation where critical health or water pollution problems exist, and that counties be given power to supervise town sanitary districts and to decide when they will be incorporated into county districts.

Work Release Sought For Prison Inmates

MADISON — The State Department of Health and Social Services will ask the Legislature to amend the prisoner work release law to permit the release for supervised employment of life term inmates of state penitentiaries who are being considered for parole.

Your Problems

Teen Reveals Secret of Child Molesting

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: God bless you for printing that letter about the old uncle who molested the little girls in the family.

Landers

You'll never know what you did for me.

I am 16 years old and for years — exactly how many, I can't remember — I have kept a secret locked inside me. Just reading that letter has made me feel 100 per cent better. I always thought I was a freak — that no one but me had ever had so horrible an experience. Now I know I am not alone.

I couldn't have been more than four years old when my uncle did things to me that I now realize he had no business doing. It all started when he took me swimming. I didn't know what he was doing and I didn't realize it was wrong. After he molested me he took me for long rides and bought me candy. He always told me never to tell anybody what happened.

My uncle died when I was seven. I remember how happy I was. I really feared and hated him. And then I felt guilty because everybody was crying and I was glad.

Please, Ann Landers, tell your readers how little girls can be protected. Thank you for giving me the chance to express myself on a subject that has been haunting me for years. — Been There

Dear Been: I'm glad you wrote, and I urge others to do so. It's good therapy.

And now for the advice: Mothers should be alert to all male friends and relatives who are overly attentive to their young children. When youngsters return from a ride or an outing they should always be asked where they went, whom they saw and what happened. Any reluctance to speak should be interpreted as a danger signal.

The number of children who are molested and raped every year is appalling, and the guilty party is usually not a stranger, interestingly enough, but a family friend or a relative.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our daughter was 15 in September but she looks and acts older. Sandy started to date when she was 12. I wasn't very happy about it but she was always ahead of her years and there was no way I could hold her back.

Sandy has gone crazy over a sailor who is stationed near here. The boy is 20 years old, doesn't say much, and for the life of me I can't figure what she sees in him. He has a hula dancer tattooed on one arm and a U.S. flag on the other. The boy is never without a cigaret in his mouth. He stands with his thumbs hooked in his pants. My husband can't stand him.

Last night Sandy said they want to be "pre-engaged" before he ships out. This means they promise to wait for each other and the promise is sealed with a ring. We are ready to say yes just to get some rest. Should we? — Tired of Fighting.

Dear Tired: No. A 15-year-old girl has no business getting pre-engaged, whatever that means, and you should not allow it.

Parents would be surprised at what can be accomplished if they take a position and let their kids know they mean it. It's always easier to say yes than no, but the easy out adds up to total abdication of parental responsibility.

Play Can Wave Its Own Flag

You don't have to tell other people how you play bridge; your play will do its own talking. Just let a hand like today's come along and you won't be able to hide your light under a bushel.

The average player takes the king of hearts and immediately wins the king of diamonds. He next leads a low diamond, and West's spade discard provokes a loud wail of distress. South complains about terrible luck and explains to all the world that the bidding was beautiful.

There's nothing wrong with the bidding, but any pair of hacks should get to six notrump with 36 points in high cards and a long suit. The luck was terrible, but South should have protected himself by executing a routine safety play.

After taking the king of hearts South should lead a low diamond to the ace and then return a low diamond from dummy. This method of playing the suit identifies South as a fine player even though not a single word is spoken.

Perfectly Safe

South is perfectly safe no matter how the diamonds break. If East follows with a low diamond, South tries a finesse with the nine. There is no danger if this finesse loses since then the suit will break normally.

As the cards lie, the nine wins and there are no other problems. East could not save himself by putting up the ten of diamonds since South would win with the king and return the nine to force out the queen.

South would be equally safe if West had the length in diamonds. In that case East would discard on the second diamond, and South would take the king of diamonds and return the nine of diamonds through West.

HINTS FROM Heloise

BY HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

Please let an old man join your circle of housewives with a salad tip.

My wife concocted a salad dressing that we've both enjoyed. . .

Since I have to use saccharin in my coffee and other drinks, she decided to make a salad dressing with saccharin as the basic ingredient.

She used two tablespoons of warm water for dissolving three quarter-grain tablets. Then added three tablespoons of vinegar and oil to taste. Stir this and pour over the salad.

The saccharin and vinegar have no calories. The only calories you get is in the amount of oil you use.

Jak

Know somethin' folks? It's just the mostest . . .

It's gonna taste like that original wilted lettuce salad dressing grandma used to make. Remember it?

I used crisp bacon chips leftover from breakfast, salt and pepper, and shook it vigorously before pouring it on my salad.

I only had half-grain tablets, so used two of 'em along with the vinegar and two tablespoons of salad oil. (But you can put more or less oil depending on your own taste.)

Especially nice for those who can't eat sugar, and my, oh my, does it taste good on that lettuce and tomato salad!

Letter of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

Whoever said, "When winter comes can spring be far behind?" was never the mother of two lively pre-schoolers in January!

J. Milhoan

Dear Heloise:

When sewing, I have a tendency to wind too much thread on the bobbin. The extra thread is then left on the bobbin after the garment is finished.

This creates a problem when time comes to start a new project. . . should I cover up the old thread or take time to unwind it?

After being in this situation one time too many. . .I finally hit upon a solution:

After the garment is finished and I'm preparing to do the hand work (such as hems and facing). . .I use the leftover thread on the bobbin instead of new thread from the spool. This puts an end to cover-up-or-unwind dilemma and it's so thrifty.

Lindy Dyke

Dear Heloise:

Ever wonder where to use spray starch so it doesn't spot everything around the article being treated?

I lay garments on the wrong side of a rather limp shag rug.

When finished I put the rug across a kitchen chiar to dry.

No more mess and when the ironing is done, I have a well-bodied shag rug to boot!

Mrs. H. A. Johnson

Dear Heloise:

I like to make fancy cutout cookies for my grandchildren but always had trouble transferring them to the baking sheet — especially the legs on animal cookies.

I thought up an idea one day that solved my problem.

I made my cookie dough and rolled it out right on the sheet. Then cut out the cookies right there . . . on the sheet!

With a sharp knife, I cut away the excess dough and baked the cookies. They turned out absolutely perfect.

If the recipe calls for a greased pan, you can grease and flour it before rolling the dough.

Public Employe Travel

A useful study of the air travel habits of Wisconsin state employes by the legislature's fiscal bureau pointedly avoids criticism of any agency or administrator thereof, but nevertheless abundantly documents its argument that there is a need for more careful management of the thousands of flights by state civil servants, teachers, officials and others each year.

Some of the statistics will perhaps be startling to the managers of private business and the rank and file citizen. It is shown, for example, that during the most recent fiscal year more than 70 per cent of over 10,000 commercial airline tickets bought and paid for by the state were on behalf of staff and officers of the University of Wisconsin. Because University personnel travel for longer distances, it represented about 80 per cent of about $1,400,000 paid out by the state treasury for air travel.

The study shows that many state agencies have no notion of how their employes travel. Their records simply record the fact of the travel, without regard to the method, although it is evident at a glance that air travel is most efficient for long distances, and motor vehicle travel for shorter trips. A sensitive taxpayer may also find himself wondering why the University of Wisconsin last year reported more than 800 airplane flights by its employes and officials to foreign countries, while all other agencies combined made only 40 such flights.

The study shows that the state now owns a substantial fleet of airplanes, but that not all of them are being used efficiently. It asks why charter flights cannot be used when groups of state employes travel for substantial distances. It notes that many of the justifications for airplane tickets purchased are phrased in highly general language, of the kind that probably would not pass muster in a well-run private corporation, or for that matter, with the auditors of the Internal Revenue Department.

That public employe flying is increasing in volume is not surprising. The airplane is capturing a steadily increasing ratio of inter-city commercial travel and the gains will almost surely continue into future decades. But this study shows that the state employes at Madison and elsewhere are increasing their air travel at a rate larger than that of the private sector, a fact that is not readily explained, but that probably ought to be noted by the state budget managers and the legislature's finance committee. Altogether, there will be general agreement with the mild if constructive recommendation of the study made for the lawmakers — that better coordination is needed in the management of air travel in the course of their employment by state workers.

The Danger From Red China

The detonation by Communist China of its second thermonuclear device late in December should once again remind Americans of the dangers from that area of the world and especially from Red China in its present belligerent isolation.

So far the reports are that Peking has a small supply of what can be called old-fashioned atomic bombs but still capable of destroying a considerable amount of territory and lives. They may begin stepped-up production of hydrogen bombs even within the next year. At this time they do not seem to have the means of delivering nuclear weapons over any range although the planes they do have that could deliver the atomic bombs could reach neighboring countries such as South Korea, Malaysia and India. Observers also believe the Chinese have developed a medium range missile.

China's nuclear program has apparently suffered from the cultural revolution with some scientists under scrutiny for alleged bourgeois ideas, especially men who were trained in the Soviet Union. But American estimates of the rate of Chinese nuclear development has generally been too conservative. Certainly we cannot rely upon another generation or even a decade in which to work things out with the Chinese.

But what is the best way to re-establish contact with Red China, to reduce that country's isolation and hopefully its determination for dominance which could result in disaster for the whole world?

Some writers have recently suggested that the current hard line being taken in the Kremlin might be a good opportunity for the United States to try to get closer to the Chinese on the grounds that it would make the Russians reconsider their own reactionary moves of the last few months. The Chinese themselves have somewhat opened the door by suggesting that the informal talks between members of our Embassy in Poland and the Red Chinese be resumed early this year. The talks have been our only official contact with the Red Chinese since we broke diplomatic and trade relations after the Nationalists were driven from mainland China.

The wisdom of our nonrecognition of Red China has always been in doubt. Despite the drastic upheavals of the cultural revolution and the earlier upsets caused by the hurried attempts to establish communes, there seems little chance for the Nationalists, now on Taiwan, to come back into power without the all - out assistance of American armed might. After our disaster in Vietnam, it is not likely that the American people would ever support such military action unless the United States came under direct attack first. If nothing else, the appalling possibilities of a nuclear war should drive us to finding out how best to avoid such an attack.

Recognition might be spurned by Peking. But if it comes gradually — perhaps with some resumption of trade in non-strategic items — it could serve to worry the Russians and reduce the tensions with the Chinese.

Such recognition undoubtedly would be denounced as capitulation to an enemy which is ruthless in its determination to establish its own way on the mainland of China. But we have diplomatic relations with many governments, Communist and otherwise, with the same intentions in varying degrees. The major danger in such recognition is that it indicates that the United States cannot live up to avowals of backing for peace, justice and liberty. But in the future we should take a little more care in determining the enemies of the factors we feel are so important and not put only communism on one side of the barrier and every other system on the other.

We do not have to defend communism to recognize that the Nationalists, who have now made such a success story on Taiwan, were considered as barbarians and oppressors and with good cause by the Taiwanese when they first took over the island after the end of World War II.

The Rewards of Honesty

The General Accounting Office investigation requested by Sen. William Proxmire which disclosed that 5.5 million gallons of gasoline and aviation fuel has been stolen from military supplies in Thailand was bad enough. But now it turns out that the man who made the investigation possible is getting the bureaucratic treatment from the Navy.

Said Sen. Proxmire:

"One of the saddest aspects has been the story of the man who blew the whistle — who stopped it. He was put in a position where it was clear he would be fired."

The man is John McGee, employed by the Navy as a civilian inspector in Thailand. McGee has been transferred back to Washington to a job which he complains is "nothing more than a make-work job as a filing clerk, only there is nothing to file." Proxmire says the Navy has said the job McGee now has is to be "phased out," to use the bureaucratic term.

There still are many answers to come on how the fuel in Thailand was stolen and who profited from it. Proxmire says he wants to know in particular whether any of the fuel reached Communist hands. So does everyone else in the country. The Navy is only compounding its troubles and increasing public doubts by making things rough for McGee.

Big Snowstorm Hits City, Country

100 YEARS AGO

On Friday morning last. (Jan. 31) a snow storm set in from the north-east, continuing all day and all night, about 18 inches of snow falling on the level.

Part of the time the wind blew a gale, drifting the snow badly on street corners and cross-roads. Street Commissioner Crawford was out promptly with the snow plows and by Sunday morning the walks were in fair condition for pedestrians. The storm extended nearly over the entire state.

Sunday was a mild and beautiful day, just cool enough to prevent a thaw.

For information for readers abroad, we mention the big storm which re-opened on Monday, closing up on Wednesday afternoon. The snow in the woods cannot be less than eight feet deep.

In clearings it is fearfully drifted and shovel brigades are in great demand. Trains have stopped running and everybody ditto, almost.

The Outagamie County Rationing Board was two years old, rationing having been introduced to the American public Jan. 5, 1942. Three men started out in Outagamie County, in a small room in City Hall. They were James B. Wagg, Herman Heckert and Chris Mullen and the complex rationing system was organized by this threesome. By 1944, this three-man volunteer staff had become a 12-member paid staff with 22 volunteers serving without pay and 10 branches established out in the county.

Planning the Fourth War Loan campaign in Outagamie were Andrew W. Parnell, chairman, Kenneth S. Dickinson, John Reeve, William E. Buchanan and Richard Mahony.

Background Map

Tide Believed Turning in War on Hunger

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The year 2000 — just 31 earth-sun revolutions away — is likely to be marked by a huge increase in the human family. Evidence indicates that the present world population of about 3.5 billion will have doubled by the time we reach the 21st Century.

The world's population has been increasing steadily for centuries, but the growth rate is accelerating.

Can the earth feed this quickly-growing number of people?

It wasn't too long ago that expert opinion indicated that food production was not keeping pace with the expanding population and that the world faced large-scale famine. Among those expounding the pessimistic viewpoint were Dr. B. R. Sen, then director-general of the Food and Agriculture Organization, President Lyndon Johnson, and U. S. Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman.

ATTITUDE CHANGING

But, in recent months, the official attitude seems to have turned around concerning the food-population problem.

In a review of the world food situation released in August 1967 — about 17 months after Freeman's earlier warnings — the U. S. Department of Agriculture announced: "The combined excess food production capacity of all the developed countries in 1980 will be more than adequate to provide for the increased food import needs of the less-developed countries. This is likely even if the less developed countries do not improve their rates of growth in grain production."

This may be an overly optimistic indication — balancing the overly pessimistic ones of the past. The "truth" may be somewhere in between, but there are growing feelings that the tide is turning in the war on hunger.

This is thought to be particularly true among the so-called "underdeveloped" nations. These emerging nations are in the throes of agricultural revolution, fueled by superproductive new hybrid grain varieties developed by U. S. foundations at research centers in the Philippines and Mexico.

PAKISTAN IS EXAMPLE

They have had astonishing impact in a short period. Food production experts in and out of government now feel that the technology can now assure any nation self-sufficiency. Pakistan, for example, the world's sixth most populous nation, was famine-frantic and dependent on food help from other nations just a few years ago. Now it is virtually self-sufficient.

The food-population problem is by no means solved; but advances such as this have shown that it can be done.

As promising as it may sound, the sudden spring forward in agriculture leaves untouched the companion problem of putting a damper on the rising population curve.

But, it will buy time, they say, and time is what today's feeble family-planning programs need.

Racial Confrontation Fault of Capitalism

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

As a former Oshkosh State University student, I would like to comment on James W. McKee's article that appeared in the January 5 edition of The Post - Crescent Magazine, "View."

Being familiar with some of the circumstances involved in the dismissal of certain very able and competent faculty members at OSU several years ago, I have no illusions concerning President Guiles. Nevertheless, it appears to me that Mr. McKee has undertaken the task of rationalizing the disorders that took place on the OSU campus last November. I, for one, will concede the desires of the black students for improving the curriculum. No one can deny that the contribution of black people to culture and civilization has been virtually ignored. Moreover, new courses are being added all the time and old ones are being dropped hence there is no reason to doubt that black culture will shortly find its way into the curriculum of OSU.

On the other hand, I am inclined to doubt the sincerity of the black students in really wanting to have the black contribution to human progress as part of the curriculum. One does not have to be a Ph. D. in psychology to know that no university official or anyone in any administrative or bureaucratic capacity is going to supinely yield to "demands" in the manner in which the "demands" of the black students were presented to President Guiles. I would be willing to bet that many of the students involved in the incident couldn't "cut the mustard" academically thanks to their rotten ghetto schooling and wanted to depart in a blaze of heroics and martyrdom.

The tragedy of the situation is that we have another "white vs. black" confrontation with the flames of racist chauvinism being fanned by both sides. Black arrogance only feeds white arrogance with the opposite being true also. The only beneficiaries in this confrontation is the capitalist class, the people who own the means of production and services in America. As long as black people and white people fight over such essentially meaningless issues as black history et al., and the black and white liberals invent excuses for the stupidity of the behavior of the students who tore up President Guiles office, the rule of the capitalists (some of whom are black) will continue bringing in its train the usual social disasters.

Mr. McKee and others who really want to end racism in America which is the result of capitalism ought to study the program of the Socialist Labor Party of America. Only by ending capitalism can we end racism. Until that happy day, we are doomed to more manifestations of social chaos in America of which the OSU incident was only a minor sample. The SLP has a pacific plan for social revolution. Is anyone interested?

Help Oilman By Digging Him a Path

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

To whom it may concern:

Let's give our fuel oil men a hand by shoveling a path to our fuel oil fill pipes, through the deep show drifts.

Many of these men fill thirty or more customrrs each day and have to wade through snow in excess of thirty inches and in many cases drifts up to four and five feet deep. To make matters worse when they do fight their way throught the snow to the fill pipes, the fill pipes are often buried by drifting snow or by snow thrown by snow blowers, and are very difficult to find.

When you call your oil man he can usually tell you just about when he will be there. When he gets there let's give him a hand by having a path cleared to the fill pipes. He will appreciate this very much.

One Word for Success In Life; It's Work

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

Your editorials and explanations thereof in regard to the black and white situation fail to reach me. Sunday's dissertation said that blacks do not have to obey the rules simply because they are black and not responsible. What are they pleading? Insanity? Most people do to absolve themselves from their wrongdoings. Now if we go so deep as to find an excuse for everyone, then anyone can get away with just about anything. Is this where we are headed? I am not a rightist — I can see both sides clearly or as clearly as finite minds can, but I cannot see why white students would be expelled without question in the same situation, and the black students can employ thousands of dollars worth of destruction without responsibility for their deeds. Now any number of white minority groups could demand similar unjustified goals to their hepped-up causes.

As a white citizen living on so-called poverty level, in a minority group (farming) with an image as low as any, and having been raised on welfare (widowed mother) I fail to have any sympathy. My daughter will attend WSU-O next fall on grants and loans and her own meager income because she wants to attend college. No one has ever handed me or mine a good image nor is the world out there waiting for us when we've attained some degree of self achievement. Only as individuals can we prove our worth, or improve our image and I'd say it's a life-long struggle. It's developed through worthwhile service to mankind, a mission, and some call it a cross. Whatever goal we choose in life, that will we be and the name of the game is "Work."

Wisconsin Report

Public School Budget Request Up 80 Pct. For Next Biennium

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The belated discovery that the state is accumulating a budget deficit of substantial size because of rises in public assistance costs described as unexpected provides an awkward kickoff for the third Knowles administration which keynoted its successful campaign only a few months earlier on the theme of fiscal solvency and operations within available means.

Wyngaard

The $25 million shortage now anticipated in welfare funds, according to the recent accounting of the welfare officials to the executive department, is not a large deficiency, standing alone.

But there will be other shortages, notably in school aids due to the localities. Deficiency appropriations for school aids are common enough, indeed, almost typical in past legislative experience.

DEMOCRATS CAN ATTACK

Yet the cumulative total of such shortages will be enough to give the eager Democrats in the legislature and elsewhere a convenient platform for attack as the new legislative session gets underway and doubtless will be a source of some embarrassment to the Republican establishment.

Conceding that some of these estimates are extremely difficult to make, remembering that the budget calculations start about 30 months before the end of the budget biennium, the Democrats probably have a right to demand why the concession of error came so late.

Is it possible that the administration's fiscal specialists knew what was going on much earlier, perhaps before the fall voting, but did not make their disclosures to the candidate in the governor's office? Is it possible that the candidate, having taken his campaign stance on a balanced budget claim, chose to withhold what he knew about the errors in the calculations of his men? Is it possible that some of these original calculations were made to fit the cloth to the suit, so to speak, to accommodate the chosen campaign posture of fiscal responsibility and caution?

ONLY PART OF PROBLEM

Democrats can scarcely be expected to resist the temptation to raise such suspicions, and perhaps others. Republicans would react in precisely the same way if a Democratic administration found itself starting a new term with bills of substantial size unpaid and thus adding to a financial problem that is already formidable in the new legislature.

Wilbur Schmidt, the chief of the welfare administration, lists a number of the causes he sees for the unforeseen bulge in relief disbursements. But the circumstances he mentions, including new legislation and court decisions, for example, are not recent. They came two years ago or thereabouts, and so officials cannot say they were surprises. All they can say convincingly is that they erred in measuring their effects.

Gov Knowles made the best of an awkward situation when he made public the Schmidt findings and accompanied the announcement with orders to state departments to inaugurate austerity measures for the next six months or the duration of the current budget period.

Civil service vacancies will remain unfilled, unless there is a critical situation. Pay raises will be withheld. Other economies will be begun.

EFFECTS ONLY NOMINAL

But they will be more nominal than real. Everybody acquainted with the operations of government knows this, and the Democrats are certain to explain it again with their maximum lung power now that the reconvening of the legislature has given them an effective publicity vehicle.

Such measures may save a few million. They won't eliminate the deficit. The effect will be political, rather than economic. They will give the governor the opportunity to start his new term with a posture of tight budgeting which will please the more conservative legislature, and perhaps divert the attention of the increasingly restive general taxpayer.

Movie 'The Two of Us' Winner of 10 Awards

Great French Actor, Engaging Youngster In 'Happy' Opener of New Art Series

BY JINGO

A joyous comedy which won 10 international awards and the raves of all critics for the superb work of an old man and a little boy opens the new three-movie art series at the Appleton Theater Tuesday. The Lawrence University Film Board-Appleton Theater offering can be seen only through Thursday.

The movie is "The Two of Us," starring one of the finest actors in the world today, Michel Simon, and a newcomer of 8, Alain Cohen, as his grandson. Simon is ranked as France's greatest screen and stage actor. His only English language film was "The Train" with Burt Lancaster and Paul Scofield in which he played the conductor. That, too, was a memorable performance.

Noted for Depth

He's an actor noted for "penetrating the core of the human heart." In "The Two of Us" he plays an opinionated, bigoted French farmer during the years of Nazi-occupied France. He also becomes a loving old man after he takes in his daughter's Jewish son to protect him from harm.

Schoolboy Alain Cohen, 8 years old when Director Claude Berri found him in a school near Paris, plays the grandson with such natural genius that critics still are arguing whether it was the great Simon who inspired the youngster's performance or his natural talent. His parents refuse to let him act in any more movies just now.

"The Two of Us" is the story of these two, who find a rare companionship and understanding together.

Impressive Awards

The movie ran a full year in two Paris theaters to standing-room only audiences. It went on to garner the Golden Bear Award (best actor of the year) for Michel Simon at the Berlin Film Festival of 1967. The Ghandi Award went to the movie and Simon for his acting in it; the movie won the International Evangelic Film Award. The Femin Prize of Belgium 1967 went to Simon; he also won the best actor award and the movie the best film award at the 1967 Panama International Film Festival.

The San Antonio International Film Festival, Hemisfilm '69, gave the movie its top award and best actor award to Simon. In April 1968, Seventeen Magazine picked "The Two of Us" for its Picture of the Month Award.

This auspicious opener speaks well for the art films that have been a cooperative event for several years now between Lawrence University Film Board and the downtown theater.

'Hagbard and Signe'

The second movie in the series will be welcomed by those in the know. It's the medieval Scandinavian legend on the Romeo and Juliet theme called "Hagbard and Signe." It's also known as "The Red Mantle."

Hailed as an incredibly beautiful movie — in story theme, photography and direction — the classic is a medieval drama worth seeing, particularly if one enjoys sagas.

The dates for its three-night run — Tuesday through Thursday — Jan. 28 through Jan. 30. Although a Swedish-made movie, it was filmed in Iceland with its many fjords and crashing seas.

Albert Camus Story

Albert Camus' chilling story of a man damned no matter what he did — "The Stranger" — is the third movie in the series. It plays Feb. 11 through Feb. 13.

Italian Marcello Mastroianni plays the hapless, hopeless Meursault, with Anna Karina his co-star.

This thoughtful story is one of unique protest, the story of a man condemned for refusal to accept social hypocrisy rather than his actual crimes.

Michel Simon, one of the world's greatest actors, and young Alain Cohen give two outstanding performances in "The Two of Us," first of the three-movie art series at the Appleton Theater. Called "the joyous comedy," Simon plays gramp and Alain the grandson in the movie playing at 7 and 9 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Mannix Hired To Investigate Death Cause

BY TV SCOUT

9-10 Channel 2 — There's a new semi-regular on Mannix, Bobby Troup in the role of Sam, the pianist, giving the series a bit of the Casablanca flavor. The story is about a murder, or a suicide, which is what Mannix is asked to prove.

4-5:30 Channel 1 — The 1,000 Mile Cross Country Road Racing Championship from Baja California, Mexico, is an unusually cast feature on ABC's Wide World of Sports. Among the hundreds of competitors in this grueling endurance test are Van Williams, Monkee Mike Nesmith, Pat Wayne (son of John), James Garner and professional drivers Don Prudhomme and Parnelli Jones. The second feature is The International Women's Alpine Skiing Championship from Oberstaufen, Germany.

7:30-8 Channel 5 — Captain Gregg takes on the appearance of a villain on The Ghost and Mrs. Muir. He has become annoyed with Scruffy, telling Mrs. Muir that she should get rid of the bouncy little fellow and buy a bigger pet, which would provide greater protection. When Scruffy disappears, the garrulous ghost is suspect No. 1.

8:30-9:30 Channel 11 Jimmy Durante hosts The Hollywood Palace with an edition that is tuned mainly to tunes. Jimmy sings several of his classics, then introduces Ella Fitzgerald and Sergio Franchi. Other singers on the show are Marvin Gaye, The Society of Seven, a rock group, and The Tahiti Nue Revue, a troupe of Tahitian singers and dancers. The comedy break comes from Pat Cooper.

Fined for Drunkenness

Denise Templin, 46, 1115 N. Mason St., was fined $25 and costs Friday in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 after being found guilty of a drunkenness charge brought by Appleton police who arrested her in the 2400 block of N. Richmond Street about 2:30 a.m. Dec. 27.

Elroy Hirsch Would Consider Job If Asked

Board of Regents Fires Ivy Williamson as the Director of UW Athletics

By ARTHUR L. SRB

MADISON (AP) — Ivan B. Williamson, whose administrative achievements fell short of his football coaching success, was fired as athletic director of the University of Wisconsin Friday.

The board of regents demoted Williamson to professor of athletics and immediately launched a search for a new man to promote the school's sagging athletic fortunes.

Williamson's ouster followed five consecutive losing football seasons, the last two of them winless. Williamson has been at Wisconsin 20 years—the first seven as football coach and the last 13 as athletic director.

"To stay competitively and fiscally ahead," said Regent President Charles Gelatt, "you have fortune and leadership on your side. We have no control over fortune. Therefore, it would seem to indicate that we need new leadership."

Inability of the floundering football Badgers to draw large crowds into Camp Randall Stadium contributed to an athletic department deficit of about $91,500. Earlier, the department had projected a deficit or more than $260,000.

The board said Williamson would be paid $18,800 as professor of athletics in the department of education. He drew $23,000 as athletic director.

Williamson, who helped rebuild the Badgers into a post-World War II football power, met with immediate success when he took over the helm in 1949.

In seven years his teams amassed a 41-19-4 record, and the first six years his teams were in contention for the Big Ten title or Rose Bowl bids down to the last day of each campaign.

His 1952 team went to the Rose Bowl and lost to Southern California, 7-0. He was elevated to athletic director following the death of Guy Sundt in 1955.

Milt Bruhn, who succeeded Williamson, took two teams to the Rose Bowl, in 1959 and 1962, then the Badgers' fortunes waned.

Ivy Williamson

Bruhn resigned under fire in 1966 after three consecutive losing seasons. His assistant, John Coatta, took over and has compiled a 0-19-1 in his first two seasons.

Rumors that Williamson might be forced out had cropped up frequently in recent weeks.

The Athletic Board held a secret meeting early this week to discuss the athletic directorship while Williamson was in Los Angeles attending the National Collegiate Athletic Association's annual conference.

Late last fall, Coatta's staff was jolted by a list of grievances submitted by black athletes following their boycott of the annual football banquet.

Coatta was later given a uanimous vote of confidence by the Athletic Board, but one of his assistants, Gene Felker, had already resigned after leveling a blast at "weak, frightened administrators."

Williamson, a native of Wayne, Ohio, played football for the University of Michigan from 1930-32. Before coming to Wisconsin, he was head coach for two years at LaFayette College in Pennsylvania.

WAUSAU (AP) — Elroy Hirsch, former University of Wisconsin and Michigan football star, said Friday night in answer to a reporter's question that he had not been approached about the athletic directorship at Wisconsin but "would give it much consideration if asked."

Hirsch, assistant to Dan Reeves, president of the Los Angeles Rams of the National football League, was reached by telephone in Miami.

He said he "certainly would not" pursue the position if not asked but commented that "anyone would be honored to be considered for the athletic director position at a major university."

Hirsch, a native of Wausau, played at Wisconsin and later at Michigan in the 1940s.

Menasha Cage Team Scores 72-62 Win

Tops New London For Third Success In League Play

BY ROGER PITT
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEW LONDON — Menasha put together a balanced attack to sweep past New London 72-62, Friday, to resume the Mid-Eastern Conference campaign.

The victory was the third in five M-E outings for Barry Ewaldt's Jays, while the Bulldogs have a 1-4 slate in loop action.

A 25-point outburst in the opening stanza was followed up with a 21-point encore to give Menasha a 46-29 advantage at the half.

In the third period, New London came roaring back within striking distance, coming within eight points on two occasions, 44-52, and 46-54.

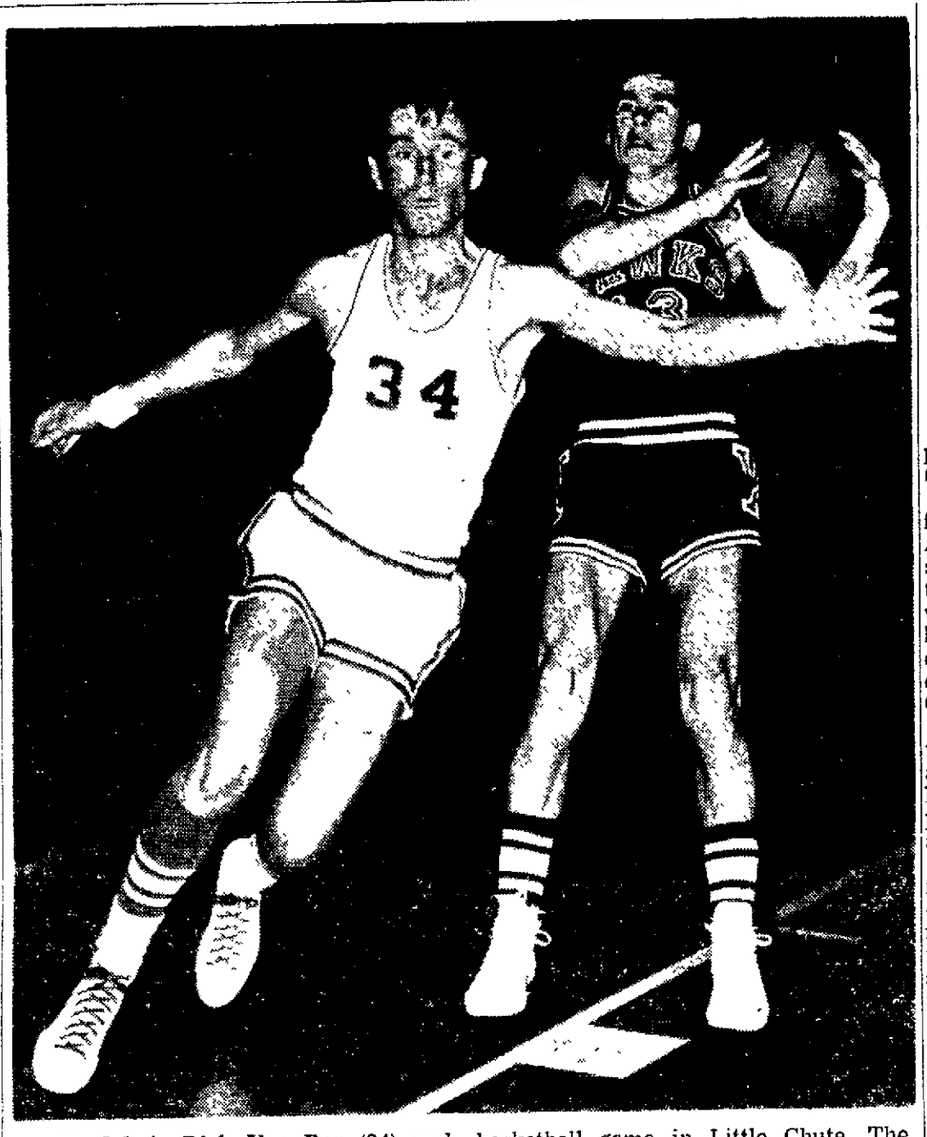

The Jays rebounded in the waning seconds of the third period to build at 58-46 advantage going in to the final stanza.

Dominates Boards

The teams were equally matched physically, but Menasha dominated the boards with 47 recoveries to the Bulldogs' 36. In the first half, when Menasha did most of its damage, the Jays had 27 rebounds to the Bulldogs 13.

Menasha loosed 56 shots in

LITTLE CHUTE — St. John failed to stand in awe of Appleton Xavier's fifth-rated state high school basketball team here Friday night, coming within 1:38 of upsetting the highly-touted Hawks who rallied down the stretch to post their eighth straight Fox Valley Catholic Conference win, 55-51.

The Dutchmen led but once in the contest, at 51-50, but that advantage came with just 3:08 left in the game as Stu Hietpas pumped in his third long-range shot of the closing priod.

Following a missed St. John free throw, Xavier's Mike Clark drove down the center and rolled in his 18th point of the night to put the Hawks ahead to stay, at 52-51, with 1:38 remaining.

Regain Control

Moments later, the visitors regained control and went into a stall but the villagers took possession with :19 showing. A long pass under the enemy bucket misfired and went out of bounds with :13 to go, forcing

An on-again, off-again Lawrence University basketball team blew hot at the right time — in the final 50 seconds, to be exact — and captured its first Midwest Conference victory of the season in edging past Knox College, 77-74, at Alexander Gym Friday night.

There were lots of heroes for the Vikes, but it was guard Dave Roozen who got what proved to be the winning basket on a driving layup with 50 seconds showing on the clock. That boal gave Lawrence a 75-74 lead, and running mate Jim Dyer added two free throws with 13 seconds left to sew up the win.

Forward Bob Townsend, held to just six points in the first half, pumped through 18 in the second stanza for a team-high total of 24. Roozen and Brad Childs contributed 17 apiece, and Mike Andrews netted 15.

Combine For 47

A dandy pair of guards, Bill Fuerst and Kyle Kennelly, combined for 48 points to pace the Knox attack. Fuerst, an all-MC choice last season, had 25 markers and Kennelly hit 22.

The actual difference in the game was measured at the free throw line. Each team fired through 30 field goals, but Lawrence connected on a dazzling 17 of 20 foul shots compared to the Siwashers' 14 of 20.

Lawrence, which was slated to welcome Monmouth at 1:30 p.m. today, thus brought its league record to 1-4. The loss left the Siwashers from Galesburg, Illinois, with a 1-1 mark.

It appeared the Vikes would win going away as they built a 73-67 advantage with 3:28 remaining. But then as it happened on several occasions earlier, John Poulson's cagers went into a cold spell and Knox came roaring back.

One free throw and a rebound goal off a missed gift attempt closed the gap to 73-70 at the 3:12 mark, and after Lawrence was forced into a traveling violation, the visitors pulled to within one point on John Park's jumper from the side.

The ball changed hands four times in the next minute or so without a point scored before Dyer fouled the Siwashers' Elbert Collins. Collins sank both tosses of a bonus situation and the Knox quintet was ahead, 74-73.

It was at this juncture that Roozen, a stockily built 5-11 senior from Milwaukee, decided to take matters in his own hands. The Vike co-captain broke to his left around the key and then out-maneuvered his man to score coming down the baseline.

Knox, of course, still had plenty of time to score, but Park's short jumper with 36 seconds to go fell off the rim. Even then, the visitors got the ball back as a Vike touched it before it went out of bounds.

Probably the biggest blow to Knox came with 15 seconds showing, when Park was called for an offensive foul against LU's Andrews. That set up a foul by Fuerst and as a consequence Dyer's final free throws.

The contest had been closely-

Green Bay East Replaces Neenah as Leader in FRVC

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — The Green Bay East High School basketball Red Devils dropped Neenah from the Fox River Valley Conference lead Friday night and took over the top spot themselves.

GBE came from behind to score a 64-57 victory to boost its record to 6-1. Neenah, the state's seventh-rated team, is now tied for second place with Fond du Lac and Green Bay West, at 6-2. The Red Devils will risk their lead tonight in a makeup game at Sheboygan North.

There were many reasons why GBE emerged the victor last night. Mark Harrington came into his own, popping in pressure buckets when he had to. Paul Casanova took control of the floor game in the second half when it appeared Neenah, after a quick start to open the second half, was ready to pull away.

Spark Drive

The reserve play of Bob Vander Zanden, particularly in the first half, sparked the east drive. It was Harrington and Casanova who came around when Van went to the bench with five personals in the opening seconds of the fourth quarter.

But if you had to put your finger on any one element in stacking up this victory, it would have to be in the direction of the Devils' big horse, John De Young.

De Young was nothing short of magnificent. He was all over both backboards. He was superb on defense. He set up screens, brought the ball down the floor when he had to ... and he scored 27 points.

De Young was a tired warrior in the late stages, but when he got the help he needed from Harrington, Casanova, Chuck Hougard, and Bill Berry down the stretch, the Devils were in.

Neenah, after dropping behind, 3-1, in the opening moment, copped the lead at 4-3 and never surrendered it until Harrington meshed a free one to tie the score, at 20-20, late in the second quarter. Tom Kopitzke, who canned 19 points to lead the Rockets, broke the tie but Vander Zanden drove the middle to knot the works at halftime, 22-22.

Neenah sprang quickly to the lead as the second half opened, swishing four straight buckets. East dogged its way back into contention the rest of the way, and with the score 37-32 against them, Casanova netted a brace of charities, Harrington a short bucket, De Young a driver and Harrington a jumper as the Devils bolted to a 40-38 third quarter advantage.

The Devils, put everything in the last quarter in the face of a determined Neenah press and steadily pulled away to a 45-38 lead. Neenah, which lost is first game to Green Bay West last week, forged to within 49-46, but De Young's twisting jumps shot from the corner propelled the Devils on the way to a 58-46 cushion.

Fondy Holds Off AHS-E's Late Rally

FOND DU LAC — The Fond du Lac basketball Cardinals held off a fourth-quarter Appleton East rally to gain a 64-60 Fox River Valley Conference contest Friday night. It snapped the Patriots' FRVC win skein at five games.

East's Patriots held a 16-11 edge after the first quarter but faltered in the second with frigid shooting. The Patriots managed only nine points in the second frame to the Cardinals' 22.

Tom Jones collected two field goals, Pete Kliefoth, Bob Birkholz had one each and Scott Wenzlau added a free throw for the only scoring for East in the second canto. Fond du Lac hit on eight of 22 second quarter shots in that frame as they gained a 33-25 halftime margin.

The Fats came back in the third period to outscore Fondy, 19-13 as they cut their deficit to two points.

The Cardinals saw their lead dwindle in the final eight minutes. The Patriots tied the score midway into the period, at 46-all, but soon fell back.

Bill Olson led the winners, now 6-2 in the conference, with 23 points. Tim Evans added 14. Jones paced the Patriots with 19 markers, followed by Birkholz with 16. Jones and Birkholz fouled out in the final period.

AHS-W Pulls Away in Final 9:13 To Defeat South Quint, 59-52

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN

Appleton West's senior and sophomore scoring power proved too much for Sheboygan South High School's basketball team in Seims gym Friday night.

Seniors Mark Catlin and Mark Schroeder and sophs Tim Moriarty and Rick Reitzner all blazed away at double-figure velocity as the Terrors downed South, 59-52, to square their Fox River Valley Conference record at 4-4.

The Redmen couldn't cope with the speed and balance of West in the final 9:13 of play, as the Terrors broke open a 37-all game and achieved a 22-15 edge the rest of the way.

With their second straight win, the Dick Emanuel-coached Terrors boosted their home court record to 4-1 and their over-all mark to 5-5. South now owns a 3-5 league record.

Scores 16 Points

The ever-improving Moriarty set the winners' pace with 16 points — including a 7-for-12 field goal shooting performance.

Catlin, off to a slow start because of a sore neck, came on strong to net 15 points — including a 9-point third quarter. Catlin didn't attempt a shot for the first 13 minutes of the game.

Schroeder and Reitzner each zeroed in for 12 Terror points. Mike Weber paced South, with 16 points, while Pete Fischer and Ron Miller added 13 and 10, respectively. The Terrors' strong defensive pressure blanked Fischer in the second half — he got off only three shots from the floor — after his hot 13-point first half.

In the close, raggedly-played first half, the score was tied five times and the lead changed hands six times. West, which committed nine turn-overs in the first half, opened a 6-point lead (12-12) at one stage. But South's Fischer broke loose for seven straight points to give his team a 19-18 lead with 3:29 remaining in the second quarter.

South led at intermission time, 26-24, on Fischer's fast-break goal with 42 seconds left.

It took the Terrors almost five minutes to gain its first second-half lead. Schroeder drove for a goal with 3:09 left in the period, for a 37-35 West lead. Miller's 15-footer gave South its final tie — with 1:24 remaining.

Reitzner scored on a lay-up, with 1:13 remaining, and the Terrors were out front to stay. Catlin and Reitzner added a pair of points apiece, while South's only response was a Weber free throw — and West led, 43-38, at quarter's end.

While the Terrors held South scoreless for the first 2½ minutes of the final period, Catlin sank a pair of free throws and Reitzner sank a corner shot for West's largest lead of the game—47-38.

Four times, South reduced its deficit to five points, but each time West moved back out of danger. The Terrors chalked up several easy baskets on fast breaks as the Redmen showed signs of tiring.

For the game, West shot at a 39.1 per cent clip from the field (25 goals in 64 attempts). South posted a 36.4 mark (on 20 of 55).

Lombardi Rumored as Possible Baseball Czar

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Green Bay Packer general manager Vince Lombardi would accept job of commissioner of baseball if it were offered him, The Atlanta Journal reported Friday. Lombardi described the report as "interesting."

The Journal, in a story by baseball writer Wilt Browning, quoted Atlanta Braves star Hank Aaron as saying he has been told by sources close to Lombardi that the former Packer coach would take the job.

"My information comes from a very reliable source," Aaron was quoted as saying. "Vince was close to baseball before and someone told me — someone very close to him — that Vince probably would accept the commissioner's job if he could have a sturdy hand in it.

"I'm not campaigning for anybody. I'm just repeating what I've been told and something I have to believe."

The Journal quoted Lombardi, in an interview from Miami, as indicating he might consider the job.

"It's interesting, but I don't know whether I would or not. It's a great position and it's a job of great prestige. But I doubt that I would be asked, but I would have to say that's interesting," Lombardi was quoted as saying.

Clintonville Quint Blasts Indians for Fourth M-E Win

SHAWANO — The Clintonville Truckers had five players in double figures Friday night as they ran over the Shawano Indians, 91-46, in a Mid-Eastern Conference game.

Clintonville scored first and never trailed. They held a 5-2 lead after two minutes, then opened with a barage which netted 14 straight points and gave the Truckers a 19-2 advantage with 4:19 left in the period.

The Truckers came off the court at half time with a 44-20 lead. They broke the game open in the second half, increasing their margin by nine in the third stanza and 21 in the final to account for the 91 to 46 victory.

The closest the Indians came after Clintonville's first-quarter scoring spree was 28-19 with 6:01 left in the second period.

The Truckers hit 38 of 62 from the floor for a torrid 61 per cent. In the second half they connected on 21 of 26, mostly on five or ten foot shots, for 81 per cent in that half. Shawano managed to score on only 31 per cent of its field goal attempts, sinking 17 of 55.

Led by 6-5 center John Torborg who had 15 rebounds, Clintonville out-rebounded the Indians 44 to 21. Forward Rod True added another (9) snags for the Truckers, and six-one Jeff Waukau led Shawano in this department with eight.

The Truckers made 15 of 25 from the line while the Indians missed only four of their 16 charity shot attempts.

True was the game's leading scorer with eight field goals and two free throws for a total of 18 points. Torborg, second highest scorer in the conference with a 17-point per-game average going into Friday night's action, ended with 16 tallies. Guard Pat Zingler, sitting out almost all the second half because of foul trouble, totaled 15 marks in the contest, all coming in the first half. Rounding out Clintonville's offensive punch were Roger Buss with 15 and Todd Norwig with 12.

Forward Jeff Waukau paced the Indians with 13 tallies, and six-foot guard Orman Waukau had 12.

UCLA Runs Win Streak To 26 Games

Whips Oregon; Duquesne Wins Over Creighton

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Oregon, led by Larry Holliday, did a very effective job on Lew Alcindor in the first half, limiting the giant UCLA center to 11 points.

But they overlooked the rest of Coach John Wooden's deeply talented Bruins, who romped out to a 54-26 halftime lead and coasted in from there Friday night, winding up with a 93-64 victory. It was the 10th victory in an unbeaten season for the defending national collegiate basketball champions, their first in the Pacific Eight conference and 26th in a row over two seasons for the nationally top-ranked Bruins.

Third-ranked Santa Clara, playing at home, held only a one-point margin over St. Mary's at halftime in their Conference opener, but pulled away to a 70-49 romp with a second half burst.

Duquesne, No. 15 in the nation and the only other ranked team in action Friday, held off Creighton 66-59 at Pittsburgh, running the Dukes' record to 10-1.

The Bruins, paced by sophomore Curtis Rowe, romped out to a quick lead while the 6-foot-6 Holliday and most of the rest of the Oregon Ducks concentrated on Alcindor.

Buffalo Group Purchases Seals

Transfer Bid to Be Acted Upon By NHL Jan. 21

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)— Four years of frustration appeared ended Thursday when a group of Buffalo sportsmen announced the purchase of the Oakland Seals of the National Hockey League.

The exact purchase price was not disclosed, but a spokesman for the Niagara Frontier Hockey Inc. said the sum was "well in excess of $2 million."

The figure was a reference to the amount paid by each of the owners of the seven expansion teams to the NHL when the league was expanded in 1965 Buffalo, which had bid for a franchise then, lost out to St. Louis.

The Seals are owned by an investment group headed by Barend vanGerbig of New York City, a former goalie at Princeton.

Seymour Knox III, the Buffalo millionaire who is president of the Niagara group, said his company had submitted a transfer application to the NHL that would be taken up at the league's next meeting Jan. 21 in Montreal.

If the transfer is approved, the Buffalo group expects to have the move completed in time for the 1969-70 season.

Thus the Seals, who are currently in second place in the league's Western Division, would become the first of the expansion teams to change cities.

K-C Wins 9 Games In 8-Ball Loop

K-C Modern Bar won straight games from Kelley's to highlight recent action in the 8-Ball Pool League.

Despite the sweep, K-C remained in fifth place with a 59-67 record. Kelley's cemented its hold on the cellar as it fell to a 40-87 mark.

In other competition, front-running Maritime (87-39) won just four and lost five against Schwalbach's (60-66) but kept a comfortable 17-game lead. Runnerup Slip & Dar's (70-56) was also set down, 5-4, by third-place Hide-A-Way (62-64).

3 Rated Teams Lose

Beloit Scores 10th Victory in a Row

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Unbeaten Beloit (10-0) paced Wisconsin high school basketball action Friday night as the Purple Knights, No. 1 in The Associated Press "big ten" poll, rolled over Madison West 83-71.

Three upsets also marked play Friday, as Neenah and Madison Memorial of the "big ten," and Wisconsin Dells of the "little ten" all lost.

Dells, one of the eight teams to make it to the state tournament last March, and rated fourth in the opening AP poll, dropped to an 8-2 mark by losing to Portage 61-53.

Neenah (8-2) fell to Green Bay East 64-57, and Madison Memorial (9-2) was dumped by Madison La Follette 58-47.

Scores 53 Points

The high-scoring honors for the night, and probably for the season, went to Mike Berge of Deerfield. He snagged 53 points on 20 baskets and 13 of 18 free-throw attempts as the Demons swamped Lakeside Lutheran 103-89.

Pennings '5' Topples Zephyrs, 72-44, on Strong Second Half

BY GEORGE MANCOSKY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MENASHA — Restricted to only four points in the first period, De Pere Pennings unleashed outputs of 22 or more in each of the next three frames to sink Menasha St. Mary High School, 72-44, in Fox Valley Catholic Conference play Friday night.

The victory left the squires tied for second place with Manitowoc Roncalli on a 6-2 record while the Zephyrs show a 1-7 FVCC chart.

Coach Bob Pliska's Menashans owned a 9-4 lead at the close of the first quarter and trailed by only six points, 26-20, at halftime.

The Norbertines notched the first four points of the third stanza and after Pat Hermus broke a 3-minute scoring drought for the Zephyrs, the victors reeled off 12 straight points to move out of range.

The first frame was a low-scoring rarity. Pennings came out of range with a zone defense and St. Mary spent a good share of the quarter passing the ball around the perimeter, seeking an opening. The Zephyrs canned four baskets in eight attempts while Pennings was limited to a single 2-pointer in seven tries, and it came with only 34 seconds left in the quarter.

Into 9 Turnovers

Coach Don LaViolette moved his charges into a press in the second stanza and it helped force St. Mary into nine turnovers. With the Twin Citians in front, 13-8, Pennings rammed in 114 straight points in taking a 22-13 lead.

The Zephyrs then made their best spurt of the game, getting seven straight markers to narrow the difference to four. A pair of free throws by Pete Van Dyke with one second left in the half upped the tally to 26-20 at midway mark.

John Albers was the Zephyrs' chief tormenter in the third quarter, hitting 13 of his team's 25 points en route to a 50-29 lead at its conclusion.

St. Mary had its most productive period in the last eight minutes, getting 15 points, 10 by Dave Lotzer.

Albers Scores 21

Albers paced the winners with 21 points and he also led the rebounders with 14 grabs. The rest of the scoring was balanced with Steve Kolb getting 11, Van Dyke 10 and Chuck Benkendorf and Tom Moore nine apiece.

Lotzer topped the hosts with 18 markers. Hermus was runnerup with half that total.

Unofficially, Pennings hit 29 of 54 field goal attempts for 54 per cent accuracy. It followed the meager first quarter with 9-14 and 9-13 efforts in the second and third. St. Mary made good 18 of its 45 chances.

Xavier Shades Chuters, 55-51

the Dutchmen to foul Brad Graff on Xavier's throw-in. Graff netted his first of two tries with :09 left; then missed the second, but Tom Thomson rebounded and hit a follow-up goal to close out the scoring.

Throughout the hard-fought contest, St. John never trailed by more than seven points, that occurring just once with about five minutes remaining in the third canto after Tom Vanden Elsen coined three markers and Clark a pair, hoisting the Hawks into a 37-30 lead.

The initial five shots at the hoop as the game got underway gave indication of the torrid action to follow as Bob Fullarton meshed two fielders and Graff one for Xavier, while the hosts countered with a bucket each by Mike Verbruggen and Rick Van Roy.

With Fullarton scoring 10 of his 16 game points in the first stanza, Xavier forged out an 18-13 advantage.

Spark Units

Gary Vande Hey and Clark each bagged a half-dozen tallies in the second quarter to spark their respective units, but the Dutchmen outscored the Hawks by a single marker in narrowing the halftime gap to 30-26.

After Xavier streaked to its 7-point third period margin, Van Roy draped a lay-in and Hietpas potted two from well out on the side, rallying St. John to within a lone tally, at 37-36.

The visitors retaliated with eight points, four by Clark, while limiting the Dutchmen to three markers by Verbruggen as the Hawks took a 45-39 edge into the closing frame.

With 4:22 to go and the Chuters trailing by three, Van Roy notched two charity tosses, but Clark offset them with a back-handed lay-in and Xavier led, 50-47.

Hietpas found his favorite spot again and draped home a goal at 3:55 and duplicated that feat with another bell - ringer at the 3:08 mark, putting St. John out front and setting the stage for Clark's clincher and the 3-point icing which followed.

Clark's 18 points took game honors for the Hawks and Fullarton was next with 16.

Verbruggen and Van Roy topped the losers with 13 markers each, followed by Vande Hey and Hietpas with 10 a piece.

In extending their unbeaten season string to 12 games, Xavier shot at a 38 per cent clip, canning 21 of 55 tries.

The Dutchmen, now 4-4 in league action, converted 20 of 48 attempts from the floor for a 42 per cent mark.

Freedom, now 0-5, was outscored 29-13 in the second and third quarter. Mike Lee led the Irish with 20 markers but their poor shooting, 20 of 63, dropped them far behind the winners.

Brillion's Lions won their fourth game against one loss by nipping Hilbert, 57-51 with a strong second half rally.

The Lions trailed, 11-7, after the first quarter and were down, 24-20, at the intermission.

Only One Against Building

Winneconne Parish to Build New Church

WINNECONNE — St. Mary Catholic Parish has decided to build a new church to replace the 84-year-old present structure, Thomas Strick, president of the board of trustees, announced this week.

Strick said plans for the church are very tentative. The square footage of the proposed facility, the architect and costs have not yet been determined, he said.

The parishioners decided in early December to go ahead with plans for the church. Strick said from 150 to 200 persons voted on the proposal and only one was against the idea.

The church currently has about 300 families with seating capacity for about 225 persons.

The present building was constructed in 1885 at a cost of $3,000. The rectory was added in 1915 and the church was remodeled for the last time in 1929.

The parish hall was built in 1964 and will most likely be incorporated into the new building plans.

Strick said he hoped an architect could be selected by early February. The architectural committee of the church has interviewed three architectural firms and is expected to meet with more, he said.

St. Mary Church, located on Third Avenue, is not large enough to meet the growth of the community. In addition, Strick said, people from other areas spend time at cottages in the community during the summer.

Questionnaires have been sent out to parish members to determine a method of financing the new facility. The answers should be returned early next week, Strick explained.

A site committee of the parish is currently considering the present St. Mary Church site versus other sites in the area for the new church, Strick said. The church owns about eight lots on the present site.

Pastor of the church is the Rev. Eugene Schmidt, who recently succeeded the Rev. Victor Kaudy. Father Kaudy had been with the church for 42 years and retired in October of 1968.

Judge Clears Trial in $1 Million Lawsuit

OSHKOSH — Circuit Judge William E. Crane ruled late Friday to sustain the two demurrers filed earlier this week, clearing the way for a trial in the $1 million suit resulting from an explosion in the Town of Menasha five years ago.

The lawsuit, against Wisconsin-Michigan Power Company and C. F. Kalupa, a contractor from Berlin, stemmed from the gas main explosion which destroyed the home of Mrs. Thersa Sobiesczyk and severely burned her four-year-old grandson, Shawn, on Jan. 17, 1965.

The trial date has been set for Jan. 21.

The home at 981 Clover St. was torn off its foundation and engulfed in flames after a gas main in front of the residence exploded during the early morning hours.

Shawn, who is still under treatment for burns suffered in the blaze, was burned over 85 per cent of his body. Mrs. Theresa Sobiesczyk was also injured as was the boy's father, Jerome Sobiesczyk.

WMPCO is connected in the suit because the gas main belonged to that firm.. However, the Berlin contracting firm was doing excavation work in the area and is involved through a charge of moving the gas line.

Both WMPCO and Kalupa have filed counter-claims against the boy's father charging negligence in the care of the boy.

Judge Crane's ruling Friday can be challenged and if there is an appeal, it could delay the Jan. 21 trial date.

"I expect we will know early next week if there is going to be an appeal," he said. "If not, counsel for both parties will begin lining up witnesses."

Snowbank Precautions

NEENAH — The Neenah Police Department has appealed to parents to keep children off snowbanks alongside streets.

Chief Lawrence Malouf said a serious accident was averted Thursday when a young girl rolled off a snowbank in front of a car, only because the vehicle stopped in time.

Children should not slide or play on the snowbanks and should even be careful walking by a snowbank because of the slippery streets, Malouf said.

The police department has asked that if residents see children playing on banks, they should ask the children to stop or notify the police station.

The snow has also caused a reduction in street width and Malouf said motorists should use good judgment when parking.

He explained that a car should not be parked directly opposite another vehicle if the roadway is small. If parked cars are found to hamper the passage of vehicles, the cars will be towed away, Malouf said.

This is "for the benefit of the entire community," Malouf said.

Cars will also be towed away if they are left on streets or in parking lots after 2 a.m., since they would be in violation of the city rodinance. Snowplows have to get through, Malouf said.

Examinations This Month

County Administrator Expected by March 15

BY FERN SMITH
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — There will be a central office for the administration of Winnebago County government and a man in the job by March 15 if the personnel committee has its way

"The qualifications will be set and the examination for the post will be given this month," Supv. Oliver Thomsen, Neenah, said Friday. He will disclose specifics to the coordinating committee when it meets at 7 p.m Monday.

"We have been dragging our feet long enough on this," Thomsen added. "I feel that we should have a firmer name for the man — call him an administrator "

Some county board supervisors have been waiting for direction from the study made by the Tarr Task Force. Commissioned by the 1967 legislature to do two things, the task force has surveyed the distribution of state aids and shared taxes and the functions of state and local government.

"I am fearful that our expectations to eliminate duplication of effort and make for more efficient county government is now bogged down in committee," Thomsen said.

"We have to hold ourselves in readiness to move if something happens at the state level this month, but we cannot wait forever," Thomsen added.

Steps Up

There are several things which may happen to improve county government, according to Thomsen.

"It may mean reducing the number of supervisors, because all of us understand the need for decisiveness of a smaller board. Another possibility is the consolidation of counties," he said.

In the meantime the Winnebago County Board, it is expected, will follow the lead of Supv. Orin King, Oshkosh, chairman of the board's coordinating committee. "We need a county administrator and we need him now," Supv. King said last November and his position is unchanged.

The board of supervisors has approved $15,000 to establish the office.

Elected Official?

One knotty question remains, according to some supervisors. "Will the county administrator be elected by the people in the county and function as the pulse of the citizenry?"

"Winnebago County has lived in the vacuum of local interest too long as it is," Supv. Roland Kampo, Town of Menasha said. "Let this man be elected by the people, and then, if he doesn't do the job, we can get rid of him.

"If we don't do this, nothing will change. The business of this county will be tied with the same political strings and we won't get anywhere," he added. "County government must change to keep up with the times and someone has to run the store."

Two Plead Innocent to Tipsy Driving

MENASHA — Two motorists arrested on charges of driving while intoxicated pleaded innocent Wednesday when brought before Winnebago County Judge James V. Sitter by Menasha police, during proceedings at the Neenah courtroom.

Trials were set for Jan. 22 for Robert M. Napiwocki, 142 Douglas St., Neenah, and Raymond L. Dorow, 237 S. Park, Neenah. Napiwocki also was charged with leaving the scene of an accident and Dorow faces an additional charge of driving on the wrong side of the roadway.

Peter J. Meulemans, 813 Seventh St., was fined $100 or 30 days in jail for drunkenness.

For inattentive driving, Michael W. Zarnoth, 18, route 1, Black Creek, was fined $55 and costs.

John P. Zaitz, 901 Henry St., Neenah, charged with disorderly conduct, was fined $35 or 10 days in jail.

Charged with failure to yield the right-of-way, Jeffery W. Track, 221 Webster St., Neenah, failed to appear in court and later posted $62, while Alfred D. Sobczak, 802 S. Memorial Drive, Appleton, pleaded innocent to a similar charge and had a trial set for Jan. 22.

Fredric A. Domer, 25, 725 Williams St., forfeited $25 on a charge of soliciting in violation of the Green River ordinance.

William E. Plank, 937 Higgins Ave., Neenah, was fined $25 for ignoring a traffic control device.

Charged with tailgating in traffic, Norman R. Zilisch, 328 Water St., pleaded innocent and had trial set for Jan. 22.

Driver Education Classes Set for St. Mary Students

MENASHA — Registration will begin Monday and continue through Jan. 22 for students to enroll in the 30-hour classroom phase of the driver education program for St. Mary High School and other parochial school students living in the Menasha School District.

St. Mary students will enroll at that school and pupils from other schools will be registered at Menasha High School. Any student who will be 16 years old before Oct. 15, 1969, regardless of grade in school, may register for the program.

Only students who also plan to enroll in the Menasha High School summer course of behind-the-wheel training will be admitted however, according to Jack Vanden Boogaard, instructor.

The fee for the classroom and behind-the-wheel program is $5 and it must be paid at the time of registration.

Classes will start Monday, Jan. 27, from 7 to 9 p.m. at Menasha High School. Students will attend one night class of two hours each over a 15-week program. Students may choose between Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday night classes, but must attend the same night each week for the duration of the course.

10 TV Sets Stolen From Holiday Inn

OSHKOSH — About 10 television sets valued at $100 apiece were stolen from the Holiday Inn on U.S. 41 near Appleton sometime Friday night or early Saturday morning.

The first missing set was discovered about 3:30 a.m. by a Holiday Inn employe, and subsequent investigation revealed that several more of the 19-inch table model sets were missing.

Winnebago County sheriff's police reported that doors to rooms where sets were taken were not jammed, and that the thief or thieves either had a key or found the doors open.

The stolen sets were broken off their wall brackets in the rooms. Bed linen was discovered missing in one of the rooms, and police suspect that this may have been used to conceal the sets when carrying them from the establishment.

Motel employes did not report seeing anything during the estimated time of the theft. The rooms from which the sets were taken were located on the far west side of the Holiday Inn and cannot be seen from the office.

Dennis Morgan Won't Seek Laird's Seat

Wife's Poor Health Given as Reason For His Decision

MILWAUKEE, (AP) — Actor Dennis Morgan, citing concern for his wife's health, told supporters in Wisconsin's 7th Congressional District Friday he would not be a candidate for the seat to be vacated by Rep. Melvin Laird, R-Wis.

Laird has been appointed secretary of defense in President-elect Nixon's cabinet.

Morgan was quoted as saying he had talked to his wife's doctors and they said she should not be involved in what would be a difficult campaign in the sprawling 15-county district.

Morgan and his wife, the former Lillian Vedder, are both former Marshfield residents. She was said to have been in ill health for some time and was hospitalized over the Christmas holiday.

OSU President Urged to Ask Regents to Reinstate 90 Blacks

BY MARK WEBB
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — The Advisory Committee for the Program for Culturally Distinct Students at Oshkosh State University late Friday afternoon recommended by an 8-6 vote that President Roger Guiles request the Board of Regents to reinstate immediately the 90 black students expelled from the campus.

The resolution also urged the possibility of student court proceedings at the discretion of the university administration. The committee hoped to set up a meeting with Guiles on Monday to discuss Friday's actions.

Also, the committee recommended that the executive committee of the faculty senate appoint a committee consisting mainly of representatives of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP), the Office of Student Affairs, and faculty senate to investigate the operation of the financial aids office.

Another sit-in demonstration was planned for 10:30 a.m. today and another for 10:30 a.m. Monday.

Remove Director

Last November, Black Student Union representatives on campus as part of five demands, urged that Maurice Spitler, financial aids director, be removed from office. The Negroes charged that Spitler was prejudiced against the blacks and that the director hampered aids' requests.

The committee met in closed session after its open session in the morning was disrupted by nine black men, reportedly members of the militant Black People's Alliance, University of Wisconsin, Madison.

An audience of some 300 students and faculty, including a contingent of black students who were expelled for taking part in the Nov. 21 demonstration, engaged in sometimes loud debate with members of the advisory committee who were reporting on progress of the administration to help provide a black cultural center on campus and to hire Negros for the faculty. The committee was also debating what recommendation it should make to Presdent Roger Guiles and the Board of Regents concerning the academic standing of the 90 expelled students.

Shortly before noon a racous fire alarm sounded throughout Clow Social Science Center where the meeting was conducted. By the time it was stopped five minutes later, the nine blacks had made their way to the front of the lecture room. Facing the assembly, they sat on the edge of the tables being used by the committee.

The leader of the nine announced, "we've taken over this meeting." He and his comrades, he said, were members of Wapendizi Weusi, a black nationalist organization. The leader was later referred to by white students as "Edwards."

The leaders chided the assembly which was mostly white. "When are you going to understand that power only concedes to power?"

The university administration, he continued, "defines how you are to protest, how you are to get things done." He asked when they would decide for themselves how to define their way to protest.

The only power students have, he said, is "the power to disrupt."

But while the 90 "black brothers and sisters" remain unable to attend school, he continued, "you sit in your dorms" and merely talk about doing something.

"Are you ready to bring about a change today?" he asked. "Then take it over (OSU)! Close it down!"

He then "apologized" for his group having interrupted the meeting and noted that the committee and assembly still wanted more debate on reinstatement of the expelled students. The nine left the hall.

Some members of the committee and the audience also left the hall and chairman Donald Jorgenson, OSU registrar, called a closed meeting for 2 p.m.

A group of about 50 students, almost all white, crossed Algoma Boulevard to Dempsey Hall, the administration building, and jammed the hallway outside the executive offices and the office of President Guiles.

One OSU administrator emerged from the suite of offices and refused to grant the students entry. As the official attempted to leave, one student momentarily held onto the official.

Hands Off

"Take your hand off me," the official warned and was met by a loud reply, "Take your hands off the black students." The official left

Tarr Task Force

Fair Redistribution Of Aid Acceptable Assures Knowles

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The state legislature will support a "fair" plan for the redistribution of state taxes and aids to localities, Gov. Warren P. Knowles assured his task force on local government organization and finance Friday.

Turning up at the session of the so-called Tarr Commission, the governor offered his thanks for the services of the bipartisan citizens-legislative advisory committee, and warned that its recommendations cannot please everyone and that residents and representatives of "tax islands" are certain to be indignant and to resist any proposal for a wholesale redistribution formula.

But because localities are legally "creatures" of the state and 46 per cent of their spending now derives from the state treasury, the state government has a legitimate concern in their effective administration and the equity of their financial arrangements, he said.

He added that local governments in Wisconsin in the aggregate spend many times more than does the state, and employ many more people. He said there are now 2,500 local governmental units, appearing to suggest that the number could be reduced,without explicitly saying so.

Central Problem

Knowles said the central problem in local government and the cause of the establishment of the study commission is "the rush to the city" and the "flight to the suburbs" which has caused vexing finance problems in the urban districts, while the smaller rural jurisdictions have suffered from the population drain through the contraction of their tax bases.

"Population shifts, and the resultant problems, have rendered our present system clearly out-dated. We face new problems with old tools and it's time for a change," he told the commission which is expected to deliver a report to the legislature in about a month, concentrating on the redistribution of local shares of state revenues and state subsidies.

Knowles noted that the amount of state money funnelled into localities has increased by great leaps, and now aggregates $1.1 billions yearly. The amount sent to localities for property tax relief, about $227,000 yearly, exceeds the total yield of the state's sales tax, he noted.

He said the state wants assurances, however, that such distribution of state resources is efficient and fair, but warned the study group that making adjustments to the present arrangements may be an "explosive task."

Gain Little

Most of the principal cities of the Fox River Valley area would gain little or nothing under the Tarr task force formula for the redistribution of state tax payments to achieve a greater equalization of property taxes statewide, and some of them would probably lose.

On the basis of 1967 levies based on true value and payable in 1968, the City of Appleton would make a slight gain, tabulations by the study group showed last night. In that year it had a full value levy of $31.92 per $1,000 of valuation, and the new formula would have reduced that to $30.78.

Green Bay had a full value levy of $28.07; the new plan would have provided for a levy of $28.09.

Changes in other valley cities, the report showed, would include: De Pere $29.99 to $28.86; Oshkosh $26.02 to $26.18; Neenah $26.59 to $27.69 and Menasha $24.35 to 25.83.

National Jaycee Award

Bart Starr, William Steiger 'Outstanding Young Men'

Two of America's most outstanding young men live in the Fox River Valley.

Green Bay Packer quarterback Bart Starr and Rep. William A. Steiger, Oshkosh, were named today to the list of Ten Outstanding Young Men of America for 1968 by the United States Jaycees.

Bart Starr

A third Wisconsin resident, Wesley Pavalon, 35, of Milwaukee, also is among those singled out for recognition by the Jaycees.

Starr was selected because the leadership he has shown as quarterback of five championship teams has carried over the leadership in civic and church affairs.

Pavalon

He spends much of his off-field time working with young people and currently is general chairman of Rawhide, Inc., a home for delinquent boys at rural New London. He also is a member of the Governor's Executive Council on Physical Fitness and a governing official of First Methodist Church and Bellin Hospital, Green Bay.

Redevelopment Authority

Starr also works on the Redevelopment Authority of Green Bay.

He is self-employed in the off-season in sales promotion and also serves as a director of the Pepsi Sports Federation. He spends a considerable amount of time visiting wounded servicemen at hospitals in the United States and abroad.

Even before becoming representative from the 6th Congressional District, Steiger, 30, began compiling an impressive list of honors.

He was recognized by President Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1955 for achievements in the field of youth work when he was presented with the "Young American Medal for Service."

He was named one of five Outstanding Young Men of Wisconsin by the state Jaycees in 1964 and Outstanding Young Republican of Wisconsin in 1966.

State Legislature

He first was elected to the Wisconsin Legislature in 1960, and at 22 became one of the youngest legislators in the state's history. He defeated incumbent John Race for the 6th Congressional District seat in 1966 and was re-elected in 1968. He is a member of the House Committee on Education and Labor and the House task forces on agriculture and on urban affairs.

He is a member of the board of directors of Steiger-Rathke Development Co. and of Oshkosh Motor Lodge, Inc.

Civic activities include membership in various party organizations, the Elks Club, membership on the board of directors of Lutheran Home of Oshkosh, Inc., Oshkosh Jaycees and the Oshkosh Area Chamber of Commerce.

Giving hope to disadvantaged persons through vocational training has led to the Jaycee award for Pavalon. At the age of 21 he opened his own trade school to help people better themselves. This has grown into Career Academy, currently operating in 12 cities with headquarters in Milwaukee.

National Prominence

He has gained national prominence in the area of technical and vocational education and is the author of more than 20 various training manuals.

Pavalon is a member of the Advisory Committee of Wisconsin Industrial Commission, board chairman of Milwaukee Professional Sports & Services, Inc., and director of the National Tape Distributors, Inc.

Others to be honored at a Jaycee Awards Congress Friday and Saturday in Syracuse, N. Y., include Robert J. Acosta, 29, Chatsworth, Calif., who compiled a superlative academic record despite total blindness and has been cited before the United States Congress for contributions in the field of education;

Lt. Arthur R. Ashe Jr., 25, Richmond, Va., one of the world's leading tennis players, who has worked closely with young people;

Newspaper Editor

James F. Hoger, 33, Chicago, editor of The Chicago Sun Times;

Navy Chaplain Raymond W. Johnson, 34, Pensacola, Fla., whose dedication, courage and physical endurance in Vietnam have won for him the Silver Star and the Legion of Merit awards;

James R. Jones, 29, Muskogee, Okla., a lawyer who is completing the responsible position of special assistant and appointments secretary to President Johnson;

Rep. William Steiger

James R. Ryun, 21, Wichita, Kan., holder of many track and field honors including the world record for the mile run;

Sam Wyly, 34, Dallas, president and executive director of University Computing Co., who has developed one of the nation's most rapidly growing businesses.

A 10-man committee of judges, including Rep. Melvin R. Laird, Marshfield, selected the outstanding young men.

Past winners of the Jaycee award have included men from the fields of business, letters, politics, entertainment, sports, military, medicine, law, journalism and religion.

Three Kennedy brothers, John F., Robert F., and Edward M., all are past award recipients as are businessmen turned politicians Nelson Rockefeller and Charles Percy.

Wisconsin residents who have been selected previously include Frank P. Zeidler, former Milwaukee mayor; Terry Brennan, Notre Dame halfback and coach, and Richard S. Falk, president of the Falk Corporation, Milwaukee.

Entertainers, Author

Actor Orson Welles, conductor and composer Leonard Bernstein, singer Pat Boone and author William Saroyan are other winners.

President-elect Richard M. Nixon is a past recipient, as are Henry Ford II; Rep. Gerald R. Ford, House minority leader; Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas, and former presidential aides Theodore Sorensen and William Moyers.

Physicians Tom Dooley and James W. Turpin, both known for humanitarian works, also have won awards.

Athletes Rafer Johnson, Joe Louis, Bob Mathias and Lou Boudreau have been awarded and so have Associated Press chief J. Wes Gallagher, Irving R. Levine and editorial cartoonist Bill Mauldin.

Billionaire Howard Hughes and Astronaut Virgil I. Grissom also are among many past outstanding young men.

Collection of Trash Study Called for

Alderman Predicts Cost Comparisons Will be 'Revealing'

The author of a resolution calling for a study and comparison of municipal versus private garbage-trash collection service costs in Appleton has set a June 30 deadline and predicts the results will be "revealing".

Ald. Harold Wolfgram (16th) submitted the lengthy resolution at Monday night's city council meeting and had it referred to the street-sanitation committee.

On Nov. 26 the City Disposal Corp., Kenosha, presented a proposal for private refuse and disposal collection to the city council but it was tabled at the time because the city is engaged in negotiations on a new contract with the union representing public works department employes.

Equipment Purchase

Wolfgram noted, with some apprehension, that if the city entered into a private collection contract it would result in the Kenosha firm purchasing all of the existing municipal equipment used for refuse collection, along with eliminating 30 employes of the city sanitation division.

Wolfgram said while the current snow removal task has exceeded the capacity and capabilities of the public works department, funds have been included in the 1969 budget to purchase and equip more refuse removal equipment with plows to better cope with situations such as those of the past two weeks.

The northside alderman claimed the sale of the city's equipment to the private firm, elimination of the sanitation division work force, along with the need for more rapid snow removal, were all related.

Wolfgram said in addition to refuse-garbage cost comparisons, an important factor for the city to consider was the cost factor in time and equipment when the need for snow removal arose under a private setup.

Elaborating on his resolution, Wolfgram said he had no intention of dropping the sanitation division, and in his own mind wondered how the city would carry out its snow removal equipment operations, and at what price, if selling all equipment to a private operator.

He asked for a report by June 30 so an evaluation could be made "as to the most economical and efficient expenditure of taxpayers money, also relating it to the quality of service to be rendered. . ."

Four years ago the city turned down a proposal by the Kenosha firm.

Federal Funds for Training of Police Received by County

Outagamie County will receive $1,450 toward the cost of sending four policemen to an eight-weeks training school at Camp McCoy.

Sgt. Stanley Arnold, county highway safety coordinator, said the funds were made available under a federal Highway Safety Project Grant.

The four county policemen, who started the State Patrol Academy course Dec. 16, are being trained in general law enforcement, traffic laws, and accident investigation.

Post Corporation Sets Dividend

A regular quarterly dividend of two cents a share was declared by the Board of Directors of Post Corporation, payable January 31 to shareholders of record January 20.

J. Victor Loewi, Chairman of the Board of Loewi and Co., Milwaukee, was named to the Board of Directors of Post Corporation.

$104,294 in Bonding

Buckley Opposes School Request

Mayor George Buckley, questioning the timing of the board of education Friday in requesting the fiscal control board to consider bonding for $104,294 for capital improvements, said he opposes the request at this time.

The mayor has called a meeting of the city's 20 aldermen and four town chairmen comprising the fiscal board for Wednesday night, preceding the regular city council meeting.

Buckley said that earlier this week T. G. Evensen and Associates, Inc., municipal finance consultants headquartered in Minneapolis, advised the city that interest rates are at "a historic high".

"At the time of this writing we are facing the highest municipal bond buyers index since February, 1934," the city's advisor said. It was also cited that interest on financing by notes was also up.

The city's bonded debt is presently over $23 million with about $13 million attributed to school construction projects.

Sometime this year, the city council will float an additional $3 million bond issue to cover the cost of additions and remodeling of AHS-West and two junior high schools. The projects tie in with the school board's long-range planning program for capital outlays.

This year the board of education sought $8.4 million for its operational budget but had the sum cut by $500,000 by the fiscal control board.

When the school board met last Monday the impact of the cut was reviewed, resulting in the request for a $104,294 bond issue for site and building improvements, and a $9,000 accounting machine.

He has asked the finance department to prepare a recommendation for the fiscal control board.

The mayor, along with several other city officials, said they had "no intentions of reopening the budget squabble".

Vagrant Woman Fined

Ellen S. Tufts, 37, whom Appleton police said could give no permanent address, was fined $35 and costs or eight days in jail Wednesday after she pleaded guilty to a vagrancy charge.

Police took her into custody at a bus depot about 4:55 a.m. Wednesday.

Man Collapses While Undergoing Tests For Tipsy Driving

A 45-year-old westside man collapsed at the Appleton police station about 7:30 p.m. Friday as he was undergoing tests for driving under the influence of intoxicants.

Police said they took the man to the station after the car he was driving sideswiped a parked car in the 500 block of N. State Street than plowed into a snowbank at Packard and State streets.

Police said that while they were administering tests to the man at the station, he collapsed and was taken to St. Elizabeth by ambulance. He remained hospitalized this morning. Charges are pending.

Primary Expected in Battle For School Board Positions

Ninth Candidate Circulating Nomination Papers for 3 Posts

With nine prospective candidates already circulating nomination papers, indication is that Appleton will have a hot school board race this spring, relegating council contests to a back seat.

Dr. Keith M. Giese, 312 N. Union St., is the latest to take out papers and reliable sources say there will be more, making it a safe bet a primary election will take place in March.

The 49-year-old Giese is a veterinarian and at one time was a city health department meat inspector. Hehas held no previous elective office.

Mayor Goerge Buckley, who was the first to take out papers for school board with the declaration he felt the time had come to change the composition of the present board, has been actively encouraging others to run.

3 Terms Expire

The terms of three school commissioners — Mrs. Helen Heil, Ronald Roberts and John Schneider — expire this year. All have announced their intention to seek reelection and are circulating papers.

In addition to Buckley, Dr. Giese and the three incumbents, others with papers are: George P. Flynn, secretary-controller for Elm Tree Bakery Co.; Thomas H. Tess, vice president, Management Science, Inc.; Don Heinritz, city parking meter department superintendent and former sheriff; Karl Becker, an engineer for the Wisconsin Telephone Co.

Mrs. Heil is a housewife and real estate sales representative; Roberts, teacher and coach at Lawrence University; and Schneider, superintendent at Langstadt's, Inc.

The deadline for filing papers is Jan. 28.

Awaiting Opinion

The mayor is awaiting an attorney general's opinion on whether he could serve on the school board, if elected. City Attorney David Geenen has said he could not unless giving up the mayor's post.

However, there is no Wisconsin case law on the question. Nothing prevents the mayor from running for the office, but holding it appears to be another matter.

An active member of the Appleton Taxpayers Association is expected to take out papers for the school board next week, acting on his own and not as a representative of the fiscally-conscious group.

2 Council Candidates

On the other side of the potential ballot, two more Appleton residents signified intentions of seeking city council posts Friday.

Ald. George E. Reynolds, 2018 Hickory Ct., manager of products engineering at the Allis Chalmers Co. plant here, announced he will be a candidate for reelection as 7th Ward alderman. Reynolds is completing his first year on the council.

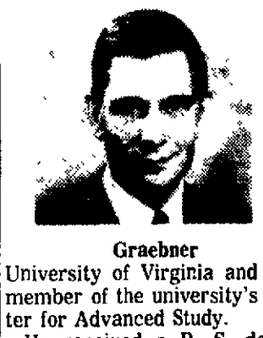

And Bruce E. Sutzman, 27, a teacher in the Hortonville Public School system and resident of this city, took out papers for the 1st Ward aldermanic position now held by Richard Huisman. Sutzman, 28, lives at 330 W. Commercial St., and will be making his first bid for public office.
